FORTY THOUSAND PEOPLE YESTERDAY.

A SPLENDID PROGRAMME FOR

AS MANY WILL BE THERE TODAY.

40,000 PEOPLE BY ACTUAL COUNT.

THAT WAS YESTERDAY'S CROWD.

One of the Greatest Days the Exposition Ever Had.

THE GREAT INTERSTATE DRILL

The Sham Battle Was a Brilliant Success.

THE OVATION TO SENATOR DANIEL

Today's Programme Replete With Good Features,

AND WILL DRAW A VERY LARGE CROWD.

"Fully 50,000-there must be that many. "I would say sixty."

Well, a thoroughly conservative estimate is 40,000. I believe the turnstiles will show rectors as they looked over the crowd packed in the grandstand, along the tracks and over the hills at the exposition grounds It was certainly one of the biggest days in the history of the exposition company. There may have been more people present on Cleveland day-there may have been as many on alliance day or Hill day. But only Cleveland day excelled yesterday's attendance, and only Hill or alliance days equalled it.

The day's exercises were perfect.

Never has there been such a drilling contest in the south as that between the five crack companies. The address of Senator Daniel was a gem, and the reception of the distinguished Virginian was one of which he was pretty proud. The sham battle was a glorious success, replete with pretty manceuvering and exciting surprises. The Wild West was better than ever. The fireworks equalled any that have ever been seen here-which means much.

There was nothing to mar the pleasures of the day. The weather, as if to make full reparation for all the disappointments the past few days, was simof the past few days, was sim-ply perfect, and bright and early Carry arms. 17. Rest on arms. 18. Every train on the Richmond and Danville, every electric car that the company could put on that line, every street car was crowded, and thousands of private conveyances passed through the

The victory of the Perry Rifles was something of a damper upon the spirits of the Brunswick boys who were a close second but expected to be first. The interest in the interstate drill ran high and It was the hope of the participants that a decision might be reached yesterday. It was not, and the friends of the Guard, the Rifles, the Suwanee, Fort Worth and Little Rock boys are on the anxious seat. The three first companies are favorites-but the decision of the judges has not been made.

Just two points, and then to the story of the day in detail. 1. Today's programme is replete with interesting features. Read it carefully and go out. 2. The transportation facilities are very much better than ever before, and deserve this special mention. For the benefit of visitors it may be well to again explain the three principal routes to the grounds. They are: The Richmond and Danville trains, which leave the Markham house every twenty minutes; the electric cars, which leave the corner of Broad land Marietta streets every fifteen minutes; the street cars of the Union lines, which go out Peachtree every five minutes. It makes no difference how you go;

only go. THE INTERSTATE DRILL It Was the Grandest Military Contest Known to the South.

Great was the drill, It was a case of Greek meeting Greek. And even the judges were left in a doubtful dilemma as to who the victors were.

Every soldier was at his best, and the weather was admirable.

The sun rose clear and bright and the western wind was cool and bracing—just enough to make the drill teams enter their work with hearty zost and a light, steady step.

It was a perfect day, and with the exception of a somewhat muddy field the interstate drill proceeded without a flaw or a single disadgramme for yesterday, and began promptly at 9:30 o'clock. Even at that early hour the grandstand was crowds of people thickly dotted the terraces

There were 30,000 people on the grounds when the drill began, and the roar of conversation on every side was deafening. The Drill Begins

The first drill was made by the Fort Worth

Fencibles.

This company marched into the confines of the drill grounds to the tune of a lively air played by the cornet band in the gallery of the grand stand, and drew up a handsome line in front of the judges.

There was a perfect storm of applause from the grand stand when the company halted, and Captain Ford turned the men over to the judges for inspection.

The uniform was white duck with gold trimmings, white helmets with white plumes as a crest. The handsome colors of the company were planted in the gateway of the drill ground, and mained there during the drill. Their sponsor, Miss Effic Howell, and the maids of honor watched the drill from their handsome carriage decorated with flags and the company's colors. The inspection was most rigid, and required some time before the company was given back to the captain to drill. The captain failed to 'open boxes" in the very beginning, and this, perhaps, was the only marked error the com-The boys from Texas began their movements beautifully. Their appearance was very fine, and their work was most clever.

This was a tough programme of evercises but the Fort Worth Fencibles went through it most fearlessly. The muddy field interfered considerably with their field movements, but their manual was almost perfect.

Round after round of applause went up after flowers in profusion. One of their prettiest offerings was a lone star made of beautious The company drilled twenty-five minutes.

They were the toast.

The pool sellers were crying them off as favorites, two to one.

The company left the field followed by ringing cheers, and the band played, "Way Down

"The Arkansaw Traveler." That's what the band played when the Mc-Carthy Light Guards from Little Rock, Ark., marched on the field.

The people were just in that happy humor to greet the boys from Arkansas with cheers and mirth, and the stirring notes of this gay song made them all the more so. A lond shout and a long shout on all sides saluted the boys as they formed a line and halted with a handsome front of blue and red. with white helmets and white and red plumes. The men began drilling at 12:22.

They led off across the track in the field movements most beautifully, and caught the attention of the grand stand from the start. The firing was particularly well done, and leserved all the applause it received. On right into line was made in a perfect

There was much interest felt everywhere in this company, and the applause and rossing welcome the men received showed in the beginning that they had friends, and numbers of them, in the great crowd.

The drilling was simply beautiful.

With uniforms of blue and red and white shokes, the company had a magnificent appearance.

speaking in thorough sympathy with him. The Gate City Guard was going through its beautiful drill when the carriages containing the distinguished visitors and the gentlemen who escorted them drove on the track and to the speaker's stand. The members of the Guard must have thought their drill especially fine at that point, judging by the cheers they heard, but the cheering was for Senator

Daniel. With Governor Gordon and Mayor Glenn, the distinguished Virginians took seats on the Governor Gordon was cheered as he rose. He said:

GENERAL GORDON'S INTRODUCTION.

General Gordon said: Ladles, Fellow-Soldiers, Fellow-Citizens:

You were soldiers once, you are citizens now. The bravest of soldiers then, you are now among the truest of citizens. Soldiers of the confederacy then, citizens of the reunited republic now. Soldiers then of an aspiring young republic, whose meteoric spiendor arrested and dazzled for a time the gaze of Christendom, and the record of whose people for daring, for devotion, for self-sacrifice and, fluially, for heroic endurance amidst defeat and wide-spread desolation are without a parallel in history; but citizens now of a living, puissant, progressive republic, whose hone you cherish, whose flag you follow, of whose achievements you are proud, in whose past glories you and your fathers were participants and for whose life, perpetuity and freedom you pledge your labors, your lives and your unimpeachable honor. In these few words I have sought to epitomize the past, the present and the future of the men and the people who gave their manhood and their womanhood, their treasure and their blood to the short-lived but glorious confederacy, and who with like devotion and singleness of purpose will uphold and defend this common republic of our fathers, established by the patriots of the north and the patriots of the south.

But I cannot consent to longer deprive you of the great pleasure in store for you today. My part passed into the drill ground while the grand stand trembled and shook with mighty cheering.

What a beautiful front they gave in their new uniforms of green and gold with white shakos, and what a well-sized company it was!

The Rifles began drilling, after an inspection of fifteen minutes, at 11:40.

Everybody knew it was a great company, and the drill was watched with unbounded interest.

Captain Spencer went forward without the slightest swerve or error with the programme, and, viewed from the grand stand, the drill came as near being perfect as they ever get to be.

Applause followed the movements in the With an affection for him born amidst the most.

Senator Daniel was received with cheers BENATOR DANIEL'S SPRECH.

As Senator Daniel rose in response to th eloquent introduction there was great cheering and applause. His handsome face and his magnetic bearing made a deep impression upon his hearers from the first word, and fre quent bursts of applause greeted his eloquent

He began: Governor Gordon, Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Piedmont Exposition; Ladies and Gentlemen—and last, but far from least—Fellow-Soldiers: If, fellow-citizens, this beautiful land-scape which stretches before us today constituted the stale; if mountains and valleys, rivers and forests, with all their riches, constituted the state; if beautiful towns, broad avenues, magnificent institutions of learning, and of justice, and of legislation—stately cities and accumulated riches, constituted the state of Georgia, then riches, constituted the state of Georgia, then, today, any countrymen, I am a stranger in a strange land, for these beautiful scenes never before transpired before my eyes. But if the history of a people, grand and noble in deed, whose dauntless courage led them foremost in the field; whose integrity stands today as a monument to the glory of the people; if excellent courtesy and abounding hospitality constitute the state, then I know

Georgia, and am at home amongsther people.
[Applause.]
I could not help but think today when I was being buried under that deluge of flowers at the hands of your gallant governor, of the time, a quarter of a century ago, when matters were somewhat reversed, and I had the honor of presenting you, Governor Gordon, and a brigade of Georgians, to an andience of some ten thousand blue-coated friends. [Laughter.] You were the speaker then, and if you will pardon an old soldier I will give you, as it appears to me an old solders twill give you, as it appears to me a glint of that eventful day.

It was in old Virglnia, in that strange wild tract known as the Wilderness and which is fully entitled to its name. It was on a beautiful afternoon of the May time, a cloudless, beautiful day, when the sun shone out as it does this day. The left of our army had been unexpectedly attacked and shattered by the opposing army of federals, I had the honor that day of serving on the staff of General Jubal A. Early, of whom you have heard before. He had arrived on the scene, but the troops were in the rear. Turning to me he said: "Go back and order the troops to come up double-quick." I went down the road as quick as my little Virginia horse would carry me, an the first troops I met were Georgians. I rode quick." As I got back, there came on a line of gray-coats, marching at double-quick, as steadily as that line you saw a few minutes ago but there were no dress parade uniforms— there was nothing bright about them save the blood-red battle flag and the glint of cold steel. As they reached the scene, and while coid steel. As they reached the cente, and while many of the generals were together on the flank getting the lay of the land and giving their orders, one Georgian was seen to ride to the front of the brigade and say something to the men. I rode to the front of the line and heard his ringing words, through a quarter of a century as I heard them then. He turned and thundered, "Georgians, I Georgia won the battle and our enemies were viewed this display, that Georgia can produc anything that any other state can produce. And I believe that if the Atlantic and Pacific were to meet and swallow up all the land but that embraced by Georgia, you could still have all the luxuries and all the necessities of still have all the luxuries and all the necessities of life. But great as are these riches, the greater riches are in these brave, true-minded men who, when the last battle had been fought, came back to desolated homes, and with brave, true hearts, built from the ruins this magnificent country. Nor should I fall in mentioning the brave Georgia women. The great German, Goethe, said@that a perfect woman should be capable of being both father and mother to her children. When the boys were off in old Virginia fighting the battles of confederacy, the noble women were, truth, both mother and father to children, and one thing to which I attribute the greatness and the glory of the south today is that the boys were raised around their mother's kn and learned the lessons their brave moth taught them.

the story of the confederacy is a story indeed, just as to us was the Mexican war, the war of 1812, or even the revolution were to their athers. They have heard of it only. They have een it as through a glass darkly. Let me sa am going to make a democratic speech, for I am not going to talk politics. I mean democratic in the broad sense of the word. Abraham Lincoln said at the battle of Getteysburg that the men of the union were fighting to preserve the government of the people, by the people and for the people; and so it was with the confederate army, which was an army of the people, fighting for the people, and by self-government of the people. Why, don't you remember the reorgani-zation of the army at Yorktown, when the whole ber that day. Then it was that you were first relieved from the responsibility of acting as captain of the Raccoon Raughs and made, by the sovereignty of the people, a Georgia colonel. And when you accepted this trust you might well have said, as General Washington and upon assuming command of the American armies, that you received it from the highest and purest fountain of human power, the hands of the people."

hands of the people."

Referring to the often-made statements concerning the existence of a southern aristocracy Senator Daniel said that there never was a body of men in which there was less aristocracy in the unpleasant sense of the word. Read the records and you will see, he said, that the officers were not men who said, "Go on, boys," but "Come on, boys." He referred in eloquent words to the wounds received by the south's generals in conflict by Albert Sidney Johnion, Ashby, Longstreet Early, Williams, Gordon, Hill, Stewart, Walker and hosts of others, and ended by saying: "And if Robert E. Lee himself did not perish at the head of his line it was because the soldiers of Georgia took his horse by the bridle rein"—and the rest of the sentence was lost amid the loud cheers which greeted the sentiment. The officers and soldiers of the confederacy slept under the

There was one peculiar thing about our confederate war, the like of which history does not chronicle. It was a war without a decisive battle in four years' fighting. History shows nothing like it since Arminius defeated the Romans and overthrew their power; since Hastings, when William the Conqueror overcame the blond-haired and blue-eyed Saxon king; and in years afterward, Waterloo, at which Napoleon's star set forever. But here in our own land there was a war of four years, in which, after every battle, you find the opposing armies still facing each other and ready to begin again. It was because the people of the south had their education neglected in the act of being beaten and when they were whipped they did not know it. And if they did get whipped they never said so. Senator Daniel told the story of the North Carolipa soldier after Appomattox, who explained to the blue-coated victor, "We'uns have just come ourselves out alickin' of you'uns, and if you don't take pretty good care we will come back and do it gloomy about the confederate. I have always seen him proud; and if he is a grand peculiarity. There is one respect in which he did resemble Napoleon. You remember that Napoleon would allow nobody else to place the crown of the empire of France upon Lis head, but taking it up with his own hands, placed it upon his head. The confederate soldier was Napoleonic in that he went into the war without bounty, he fought through the war without bounty, he fought through the war without bounty, he fought through the war without nope of pay, without prospect of pension-He, too, proudly took the crown he had won for himself and placed it upon his own head."

Referring to an incident of interest to Atlants, he said that on the 9th of April. 1805, he was a wounded confederate soldier sick in bed in Lynchburg. He heard afar the roar of battle, the last struggle of the dying confederacy. It was the last charge of the confederates upon the federal hosts that surrounded them and was led by the Georgia general. And it was in these hills of Lynchburg, rich in their treasures of war history, that John Milledge, another gallant Georgian, buried the guns which had done valiant service for the confederacy in his batteries of artillery, rather than let them get into the hands of the conquering army.

In a few eloquent words that held his best past and of those that were to come, and of the beautiful examples to the young which the lives of the south's great leaders afforded. His tribute to Lee and Jackson and Gordon, and to the valiant soldiers whose glorious achievements reflected such luster upon the flag of the confederacy was a marvel of elo-quence and carried his audience by storm. After he had taken his seat there were calls for General Gordon and Senator Colquitt; but the hour of the sham battle had arrived and General Gordon, in a few words, called atten-

FORMING FOR THE PATTLE.

Shortly after 3 o'clock the troops began getting in motion for the battle.

The Veterans were the first to form for the field. As soon as the speaking was over they filed out into the race track and marched to the race track and marched to the race track and marched to the road leading to the machinery hall, where they formed and awaited the further organ tion of the two armies. About the same time the artillery under command of Captain George B. Forbes, was limbered up and placed in position, one piece at the south end of the race track to support the army of the south and two pieces on an eminence overlooking the battlefield, supporting the army of the north. A third piece of artillery was placed on the field to be used

ARMY OF THE SOUTH.

Following the planting of the artillery the bouth line began to form.

while the Veterans were getting in shape behind the hill, the bright red uniforms of the Atlanta Zouaves were seen approaching through the southern entrance to the field. Following the Zonaves, which were led by Colonel Calhoun and staff, came the Gate City Guard,
Perry Rides,
Brunswick Riflemen.

Then as they formed across the field in long, glittering line of battle, the gray-shirted veterans marched up and took position in rear of the main line, supporting the artillery.

This, with the addition of the Governor's Horse Guard, which arrived on the ground aminute or two later, composed the army of the south.

The army of the south was formed in post-tion, and the battle actually opened before there was any sign of activity on the part of the north line.

there was any sign of activity on the part of the north line.

As the rear of the Veterans' line entered the south gate, the artillery on the northern hills thundered forth the first deep-toned warning of the approaching combat.

The ceto of the guns had not died, nor the smoke lifted, when the southern cavalry, the Governor's Horse Guard, led by Captain Miller, dashed in at the south of the field, and came down the race track at a gallop as if to charge the battery on the hill beyond.

Before the cavalry had traversed half the distance between it and the battery of the northern army, a skirmish line from the Sewanee Rifles was quickly thrown out, advancing toward the south.

The Zouaves were sent out to meet the advance of the northern skirmishers, and after a hot fight between the two lines the Zouaves retreated slowly to the main line, firing upon the Sewanee boys as they retired.

During the manouvreing the northern artillery kept up a vigorous firing against the retreating southern skirmishers. In a few moments, as the Zouaves were being pressed closely, the artillery of the south line came to their support, continuing to reply vigorously to the pieces on the opposite hill throughous

Then a hand-to-hand cavalry fight took place. The Indians and cowboys, brandishing their weapons in the air and yelling to increase the confusion, drove the Horse Guard back to the front of the grand stand. This was one of the most exciting purts of the great battle. Men were unhorsed, and the entire troop was perfectly enveloped in smoke. Suddenly, the bugle sounded, and the Horse Guard, wade a degree to the art of the grand and the Horse Guard, wade a degree to the contract of the standard standard and the Horse Guard, wade a degree to the contract of the standard standard and the Horse Guard. Guard in made a desperate stand, rallying around their gallant leader and contending furiously against the redskins and westerners. Finally Miller's men were successful, in measure, for Pawnee Bill's troop was forced to turn and seek shelter behind the lines of infantry that were just beginning to come up to support the northern skirmish line.

to support the northern skirmish line.

THE EATTLE THICKENS.

The northern skirmishers had almost been driven from the field when the Grady Cadeti and the Police Battalion companies, part of the northern line, advanced at a double quick. In a few moments they were thrown in line of battle to support the Sewanee boys and repulse the ouslaught of the opposing line.

The fighting then began in earnest. The rattle of musketry and the boom of the opposing artillery filled the air. Both lines sen forth volley after volley in rapid succession and the thunder of the cannon made the earth tremble.

In the thickest of this Pawnee Bill rallied his band for another attack.

With a yell and a dash they swooped down upon the Horse Guard, who were waiting to receive them directly in front of the grand stand.

If the first engagement between the cavalry and Pawnee Bill's warriors had been exciting, their second one was ten times more so. For fully five minutes the horsemen struggled against each other, discharging their weapons almost in each other's faces.

The spectators were intensely interested, every eye being strained and every nerve quickened with excitement. with excitement.

LEGISLATION TO BE ASKED FOR. There seems to be a pretty strong feeling among all classes of employes in favor weekly payments of wages instead of monthly, as is now the custom. It is claimed by those interested in the matter that it would be a great boon to them in many ways. A large portion of the emploves think that the legislature in this state should take the matter up. Such measure with an alliance legislature, would probably stand a good chance of going ough. It is stated that an effort will be made to enlist the support of labor organieations here in such a movement.

EXPLAINING THE SITUATION.

Hon. A. Q. Moedy, of Thomas County, Writes a Card. THOMASVILLE, Ga., October 24.—[Special.]

Hon. A. Q. Moody, vice president of the State Agricultural Society for the second congresnal district, president of the Thomas county alliance, and member of the judiciary comittee, has written the following card on the litical situation:

mittee, has written the following card on the political situation:

Entron Constitution: I propose to give in this communication a clear and honest statement of the political situation as viewed from an alliance standpoint; and although I speak in the first person, my intention is to voice the sentiment of the great mass of alliancemen in this section of Georgia.

The farmers' Alliance was born of necessity. The farming interests of the country had been nampered so long by unjust discriminations, that a crisis had been reached, when two-thirds of the farmers must go into bankruptcy or else form a combination for mutual protection.

The evils which have flooded the land, withering with their baneful influence the honest efforts of those devoted to the pursuit of agriculture, and dragging down its followers to a position little better than that of serfdom, have arisen from bad legislation. The conclus on is obvious that these same evils must be cured by good legislation.

If the foregoing be true, it is equally plain that the alliance, if it expects to rectify the wrongs of the farming class, must go into politics so far as to see that it is represented in the halls of legislation, both state and national, by such persons as are in harmony, with its principles and purposes.

Thus far the alliance intends to go into politics and no further. Whatever political work it does will be within the lines of the democratic party.

It is no disorganizer, and has no intention of rying to disrupt the democratic party, such persons as the intendence of the democratic party.

It claims the right, like all other clizzens, to indicate its preferences by the recommending for somination by the democratic party such persons as the property of the alliancemen of the district, but there was no organized opposition; he received the democratic nomination, and these same alliancemen will give him a cheerful and cordial support.

This is as it ought to bey but how is it with the so-called Jeffersonian democratic numing as an independent c

Mr. Clements retired from the race because he new that a majority of the democratic voters of its district were against him. If he had thought what a majority of the democratic voters of district were against him. If he had thought conly a majority of alliancemen were opposed is nomination, and not a majority of demosa, he never would have given up the contest.

Everett was nominated by a regularly conted democratic convention, not as an alliman, but as a democrat. In accepting the ination he announced his intention eting in full harmony with the national ocratic party, and of abiding the almost of the party demand that its regular nominould be beaten, because he happens to be a her of the Farmers' Alliance.

The first history of the first harmony with the national oratic party demand that its regular nominould be beaten, because he happens to be a her of the Farmers' Alliance.

afraid that the alliance will destroy the demo-cratic party.

The truth is, the men in Georgia who have so long shaped the politics of the state in such a manner as to suit their own purposes, have seen the "handwriting on the wall," visions of departed glory rise up before their eyes, and hence all this hue and cry about the alliance going into politics. And now for a short discussion of the senatorial question.

And now for a short discussion of the question.

When Governor Gordon addressed the agricultural convention at LaGrange he received the unanimous endorsement of that body, four-fifths of which were members of the alliance. In that speech, he encouraged the farmers to try by organized effort to improve their condition, life told them to agitate, to keep agitating—to agitate their subtreasury bill, and that out of all this agitation would be evolved something for their relief. This was entirely satisfactory, and no declaration more explicit was required.

was entirely satisfactory, and no declaration more explicit was required.

A few days later when Governor Gordon spoke to the members of the state alliance at Atlanta a change had come over the spirit of his dreams. He told the assembled farmers that, as an honest man, he must come out squarely against the only practical measure for relief which they had put forth.

man, he must come out squarely against the omy practical measure for relief which they had put forth.

Why, as an honest man, he had never taken any such decided position before, can only be explained on the hypothesis that he was caused by pressure outside the alliance to make the greatest mistake of his life.

According to the views of alliancemen, the train which led to the political blunder can be thus traced:

The outside politicians determined to make a tool of Governor Gordon to destroy the alliance, knowing him to be the most popular man in the state. They represented to the governor that while the main purposes of the alliance were commendable, they were going too far and needed a check, both for their own good and the good of the democratic party; that while he would be conferring incalculable benefit upon the country, his chances for the senatorship would not be imperiled on account of his immense popularity.

As these shrewd politicians expected, the governor casily fell in the trap so skillfully prepared, and now the question to be decided is, which is the stronger, Governor Gordon or the alliance? If the alliance is defeated it will receive a blow from which it may take years to recover. If Governor Gordon is defeated one man, who has been repeatedly honored by the people of Georgia in a manner sufficient to satisfy the ambition of any man, will be asked to retire and give place to some other man equally as capable.

Governor Gordon made a splendid record in the Governor Gordon made a splendid record in the war; his administration of the office of chief exwar; his administration of the omee of war; his administration of the omee the approbation centive has been such as to meet the approbation alliance memlers of the ecuive has been such as to meet the approbation of all good citizens; but alliance memlers of the legislature, unless so instructed by the democrats of their respective counties, cannot vote for Governor Gordon without stutifying themselves. Not that they love Governor Gordon Icss, but that they love alliance principles more.

They honor him for his glorious past, but the present furnishes an overwhelming Issue which must be met.

THE STATE CHEMIST.

Professor White Declined Reappointment To the Position.

MACON, Ga., October 24.-[Special.]-THE Constitution, exclusive announcement of the fact that Commissioner of Agriculture-Elect Nesbitt had tendered to Mr. George T. Payne, of this city, the appointment of state chemist, was somewhat misleading as regards Professor H. C. White, the present able state chemist. Professor White was urged by Mr. Nesbitt to continue in office, and his declination to do so resulted in the appointment of Mr. Payne. Several months ago Professor White was elected president of the State Agricultural college, of the university, and since that time has zealously applied himself to the task of building up this department of the university. The question of requiring the state chemist t have his office at the capitol has constantly arisen of late and Professor White concluded that, as it would be impossible for him to sever his connection with the university and remove from Athens, he would no longer stand in the way of the change if the commissioner thought it necessary. He so notified Mr. Nesbitt and was requested by him to continue under the new administration. Finding that his new duties in the university would conflict, he declined reappointment and his successor was selected.

THE TENTH DISTRICT.

Chairman Kelley Calls Upon the Demo racy to Be Watchful.

To the Democrats of the Tenth District On November 4, 1890, the congressional elections ome off. It is extremely important that our party poll a full vote.

There is an organized and unscrupulous con spiracy among the republican leaders to control spiracy among the republican leaders to control the next congress by turning out democrats from the south whenever a pretense exists. In this district the democratic nominee, Thomas E. Watson, is opposed by a colored republican. If the vote for Mr. Watson should be light, and the vote for the negro should be large, this district may be selected for the perpetration of just such an outrage as was put upon the Petersburg district in rage as was put types.

The issues at stake are great. The times are critical. Let every democratic individual determine to do his duty. Let every one vote. Let us take pride in giving our nomines such an over-whelming majority that even Reed and his gang shall respect the will of this people. R. A. KELLEY, Ch'mn Dem. Ex. Com. Tenth District.

A Card. MABLETON, Ga., October 24, 1890.—Editor Con-stitution: I wish to correct a statement which has been used in the campaign in the seventh district, that a minister of the Primitive Bantist church, named Mitchell, made an affidavit that he was set down at a table with negroes by Hon. R. W. Everett. I am well acquainted with every Primitive Baptist minister in Paulding county, and there is no minister in that county, identified with the church, by that name. The affidavit has been used to injure Mr. Everett, and it is a reflection upon our church that Mitchell should claim to be a Primitive Baptist minister. Please give this space in your paper. Respectfully, W. W. WEST. church, named Mitchell, made an affidavit that h Judge Gilmore's Candidacy.

Sandersville, Ga., October 24.—[Special.]—The candidacy of Hon. John N. Gilmore for judge of the superior court is being pushed vigorously by his friends.

Colonel Gilmore has the earnest endorsement of the fifteen attorneys, including the judge of the court and the solicitor general. The Washington County Alliance has given him a strong and hearty endorsement.

THE BEND IN THE RIVER Which Has Been Obviated by a Short Canal.

SANDERSVILLE, Ga., October 24.—[Special.] There is a bend in the Oconee river opposite Mr. J. F. Pearson's plantation on the western border of Washington county that forms perfect horseshoe.

Several years ago driftwood and all manne of obstructions got hedged in this bend and seriously hindered timbermen in ratting. It was impossible to remove the obstructions, and these parties set about to devise some plan to remove the difficulty under which they labored. Funds were raised to the amount of several hundred dollars, and a force of hands put to hundred dollars, and a force of hands put to work to cut a canal across the narrow strip of land that intervened between the fluent curves formed by this bend, and thus divert the channel of the river. Before the work was accomplished they expended all the cash raised, and were compelled to abandon the enterprise. Several months ago Mr. Thompson, who engages extensively in timber-rafting, started the work up again and his persistency has been rewarded with success. He says this canal is now practically the run of the river, and he has resumed business. The length of the cut is between a quarter and half a mile.

Acworth's New Hotel.

Acworth, Ga., October 24.—[Special.]— Messrs. Honderson & Austin, the contractors to build Acworth's new hotel, have completed the work perfectly satisfactory to the committee and stockholders. Acworth now has one of the best hotel buildings in north Georgia.
Messrs. Evatt, Nickols & Co. have rented it for fourteen months, and will open up for parfor fourteen months, and will open up for pat-ronage on the 1st of November. The house will be under the immediate charge of Mr. R. A. Evatt, one of Acworth's cleverest young business men.

They Remembered the Preacher.

WARRENTON, Ga., October 24.—[Special.]—
Rev. J. H. Mashburn, pastor of the Methodist church at this place, was the happy recipient of a $50 suit of clothes from the ladies of his church a few days ago. Rev. Mr. Mashburn is not only a preacher of much ability, but an axceedingly popular citizen.

TWO LIVES LOST

IN A DISPUTE ABOUT A HANDFUL OF CHINQUAPINS.

A Negro Boy, Fifteen Years of Age, Kills Yesterday Morning.

WAYNESBORO, Ga., October 24 .- [Special.] News of an open-handed lynching near Perkin's Junction, three miles from here, reached our town today. Two lives have been taken, and the law boldly trampled upon by a lawless

On Monday, a negro boy, fifteen years old, General Thomas by name, who had been out hunting, passed the home of Mr. John T. Robinson, having with him a quantity of chinquapins.

THE CHINQUAPIN INCIDENT. A son of Mr. Robinson, Johnny, a little boy five years old, begged the boy for some of his chinquapins. He refusing, the little boy took some of them from General's pocket and started to run off, when the former aimed his gun at him and ordered him to stop.

SHOT TO DEATH. Johnny did not obey promptly, when the gun fired, tearing away the bowels of the child. The boy was arrested, tried and committed to jail Tuesday at 11 o'clock. THE STORY OF THE LYNCHING.

He was put in the hands of Officer Thomas W. Joyner, constable, to bring him to jail. The officer kept him until mornng, when, at Perkins's Junction, at 3 o'clock, awaiting for the train for Waynesboro, the boy General was taken by a masked mob and carried away. He was found later today, one mile down the track, near an academy, tied to a pine sappling riddled with bullets.

THE HABEAS CORPUS. Sheriff C. W. Hurst saw the corpse in this condition today, he having gone down to serve a mandamus upon Constable Joyner to produce the boy, Stepney Williams having come to. town and swore out the necessary papers to have his son brought to jail.

GREAT INDIGNATION FELT. Great indignation is felt here at the action of Joyner in keeping the boy away from jail so long. His excuse was that he was hiding him out from the lynchers. Joyner is the uncle of Johnnie, the little white boy who was killed by the negro, General Thomas. The latter said the killing was accidental, having happened while he was sitting down with his gun across his lap.

TEN CONVICTS ESCAPE. Two Bloodhounds Put on Their Trail-The

COVINGTON, Ga., October 24 .- [Special.]-Mr. W. B. Lee, of this place, has a farm about fourteen miles from here which he cultivates by convict labor, and has been working about twenty-five hands. Wednesday night ten of theseconvicts broke out of the stockade in which they were confined, and made their escape. All of them are negroes, and their names are as follows: John Smith, Gus Dupree, Lambert Bell, Charley Farrall, Willis Echols and Amos Hesterday, from Newnan, Ga.; Freeman Clark, Jim Harrison and Ben Fields, from Gainesville, and Joe Baynes, from Alpharetta. Mr. W. B. Lee has thus far failed to capture any of the convicts. The convict laborers effected their escape Wednesday night. They effected their escape by the aid of a "trusty," Willis Echols, who carried into the stockade where they were confined a mattox, by means of which broke through the enclosure. Dr. J. W. Lee who has charge of Mr. W. B. Lee's farm, was notified of their escape about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, and started in pursuit of At son point on their route they separated, five of them passing through McDonough, two going toward Atlanta and the other three are Atlanta and the other three are supposed to have gone toward Gainesville. When Dr. Lee reached McDonough he learned that he was only about three hours behind those who had passed through that place; but, as he was censiderably fatigued by his ride, he gave up the pursuit and returned home. The loss of their labor at this time is quite a misfortune to Mr. Lee, as they are greatly needed in the gathering of his cotton crop, and the scarcity of hands for that purpose will render it very difficult to supply their places.

REV. SAM JONES

Is Roundly Abused by a Wilmington CHARLOTTE, N. C., October 24 .- [Special.] Quite a commotion will be created the this state, especially in religious circles, when the newspaper letter of Rev. L. H. Pritchard, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church at Wilmington, in regard to the preaching of Rev. Sam P. Jones, is generally circulated.

Rev. Mr. Jones recently closed a series of revival meetings in Wilmington. he went there Rev. Dr. Pritchard, who, by the way, is one of the most prominent preachers of his denomination in North Carolina, announced that he could not co-operate with the evangelist in the work of sav-ing souls, and during the meetings "he stood with hands off," and only attended two services.

Mr. Jones fired several hot shot at him in the course of his sermons, charging at one time that the Baptist pastor had gone into copartnership with the devil to damn Wilmington by upholding a deacon of his church who rented his houses for barrooms.

Now Dr. Pritchard comes at the evangelist with a four-column article, and it will surely create a sensation. Dr. Pritchard says Sam Jones is a vulgarian and blackguard, and charges also that he makes free use of profanity in the pulpit.

MEXICAN VETERANS Who Have Recently Been Placed on the SANDERSVILLE, Ga,, October 24 .- [Special.] The United States government has granted a pension to Thomas G. Davis, of this county, a pension to Thomas G. Davis, of this county, a veteran of the Mexican war in 1846. Mr. Davis was a corporal in Company C, Thirteenth regiment United States infantry. He is given $345.33 for back pay and will draw $5 per month from the date of the granting of the pension. He is now in his sixty-eighth year. Dr. A. Beach, of Riddleville, also draws a similar amount from the government for services in the same war.

There did reside in this county, but they are all dead now, four widow ladies that drew pensions for services rendered by their husbands in the war of 1812. They were Mrs. Grier, Mrs. Tanner and Mrs. Sheppard. The name of the fourth I cannot now recall.

YESTERDAY'S BLAZES. A Large Conflagration in East Pepperall-Other Fires.

EAST PEPPERAUL, Mass., October 24 .- A EAST PEPPERALL, Mass., October 24.—A big fire was discovered this morning at 2 o'clock in the shoe factory of Leighton Bros., and soon the whole building was ablaze. A high wind was blowing, and the flames spread rapidly, and almost before the people in the neighborhood were aware of their danger, the fire was threatening their very lives. It spread from the shoe factory to a row of wooden boarding houses. Help was called from the surrounding towns, the old apparatus of the locality being insufficient. Nashna was called upon, and responded with some of her trucks and men.

Before the flames could be attacked successfully, the shoe factory had been burned to the ground; also three residences, seven stores and a block of boarding houses. Loss estimated at $300,000. Early after daybreak the flames were overcome. Several hundred persons are out of employment by the fire, and the town is in distress. The heaviest single loss is on Leighton's shoe factory, $150,000, and on lumber $12,000. The factory employed 400 hands, and turned out between 4,000 and 5,000 pairs of brogans a day. The insurance on Leighton's property amounts to $100,000, held by sixty stock companies. The Leightons recently reduced their insurance from $150,000, owing to high rates.

THEY WOKE UP THE PASSENGERS And Relieved Them of Their Surplu

Socoreo, N. M., October 24.—Thursday morning, as the southbound train on the Santa Fe railroad pulled out of Socorro three men were seen to step on board. After the train had passed San Antonio these strangers entered the Pullman sleeper and locked the door, then drew their guns on the porter and conductor and relieved them of their surplus cash. They introduced themselves to the passengers, going through most of them and making quite a haul. They jumped from the train on the Basque de Apache grant, taking to the hills. It is estimated that they got $10,500. The thing was done so neatly and quietly that very few on the train knew what had happened. The robbers were dressed as cowboys, Cash.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, October 24.—Futures opened at seven to eight points decline, closing steady at nine to eleven points decline from yesterday's closing prices. The bears ruled the roost today. Efforts which have been made to support prices on adverse crop accounts, alternating from frosts to violient storms and high winds were badly defeated. Here we are in the last week of October with no serious frosts. The weather at the south was clear and cool, but we have reached the stage of the season when frosts, however severe, can do no serious injury, but possibly do good in some sections. A wager of $200 to $500 is reported to have been made that the crop will amount to $8,00,000 bales.

Market floundered along at about the opening prices till last hour when there was a renewed weakness, but in the last fifteen minutes there was a sharp raily on the demands to cover contracts, stimulated by the possibility of some reaction. Spot cotton was 1-16 cent lower. Efforts which have been made to support prices

Dudley's Case Against The World.

New York, October 24.—The general term of the supreme court has refused to vacate the order for the examination of Colonel William W. Dudley before trial in his suit for libel against the Press Publishing Company (The World) for damages in publishing the famous "Blocks of Five" letter. In writing the opinion Judge Daniels said: "Under the circumstances of the case it is evident that the plaintiff, when he has visited New York, has been actuated with an intent to avoid service phantin, when he has visited New York, has been actuated with an intent to avoid service of the order, and of practically declining to obey the mandate of the court. Under these circumstances the court would not, with any just respect to its own proceedings, listen to his application to vacate its order."

Secretary Beddingfield announces to alliancemen that this is the only change to get a congressman in the second chance to get a congressman in the second district who is favorable to the alliance.

Death of the Engineer. CINCINNATI, October 24.—Pat Taylor, engineer of the ill-fated No. 5 train in the tunnel wreck on the Cincinnati Southern road, died today at Somerset. This makes seven victims of the accident. Conductor Walton, of the freight train, who gave the order to go ahead and thereby became responsible for the collision, is still missing. WILL VOTE FOR THE TILLMAN NOM-

He Writes a Letter to the State Chairman Which Is Regarded as Stronger for Haskell Than for Tiliman.

COLUMBIA, S. C., October 24.-[Special.]-

For the past week the people of the state have been anxiously waiting for a promised letter from Senator Wade Hampton.

It came this evening.

It came this evening.

General Hampton writes in response to State Chairman Irby, who requested him to take the stump in the interest of Captain Tillman.
The document is considered as favorable to the Haskell ticket, for while Senator Hamp-ton promises to vote for the Tillman ticket, he eulogizes Haskell. It is far from what the Fillmanites expected.

And whilst I think he has made a great mistake in lending his name and influence to the movement inaugurated by his friends, I shall not denounce the man who was my comrade in war, who was one of the ablest and bravest officers in my command, and who was my trusted friend and advisor in 1876.

I do not venture to offer advice to my fellow-citizens, for my last honest effort to do so fell un heeded, but I do appeal to them by the glorious memories of '76, by all our hopes for the enduring prosperity of our state, to avoid all semblance of violence in the conduct of the election. Let every man who holds the honor of our state dear, con-

DRUMMERS' DAY.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING OF THE SOUTHERN TRAVELERS.

Another Meeting to Be Held Tonight, When the Final Arrangements for Drum-mers' Day Will Be Made.

The Southern Travelers' Association, is one of the most influential organizations in the The headquarters of this grand organization of the representatives of the business of the south, are in the old capitol building. The beauty and elegance of these apart ments have been described in these columns

But tonight will be held one of the most important meetings during the history of the organization.

It is a grand rally of the drummers of At-The object is to complete the arangements for the great reception on "Drummers' Day," next Monday, at the Piedmont exposition. An urgent request is extended to every com mercial man in Atlanta to be present at the meeting.

Hundreds of merchants outside of the city will visit the exposition on that day, and it will be expected that the Southern Travelers' Association will entertain them.

It is very essential that all committees on badges, refreshments and other arrangements shall hand in their reports at the meeting tonight, so that the final managements may be completed in detail.

It is the desire of the commercial men of the city to make Drummers' Day the biggest day that has ever dawned in the city of At-lanta, the head and center of the Southern Trivelers' Association.

The meeting will be held in the association rooms in the old capitol, and will begin at 7:50 o'clock this evening. The general hotef committee of the southern district is now in session, and Messrs. Guy L. Harvard, of Macon, Ga.; O. S. Lee, of Augusta, Ga.; and Charles Brannan, of Atlanta, are in attendance.

The object of this committee is to receive reports from the various branches in regard to making contracts with hotels, and to consider all grievances reported in the district, so that a proper adjustment may be consummated between the travelers and hotel keepers. THE SHAM BATTLE.

they were wildly cheered, the inspiring old "rebol yell," as it pealed from their throats, awakening new enthusiasm in the hearts of the spectators. The sight of the noble old soldiers, clad in their modest suit of gray, grasping firmly in their mained and scarred hands their trusty old musket, and charging their enemy at a run, was an inspiration to those who had never experienced the terrible brunt of war and a sight that revived many sacred recollections in the hearts of their comrades who looked on.

Led on by the victory of the veterans, the Bouthern column charged the northern line, driving it back foot by foot.

Here the battle was at close quarters, the north line standing its ground stubbornly and north line standing its ground stubbornly and the attacking forces being equally determined to carry its point.

It was hand-to-hand, many of the men dropping their guns and using small arms.

Litters and surgeons' corps were hurried out and the wounded carried to the rear.

ers were taken and retaken again, and Prisoners were taken and retaken again, and altogether it was a most realistic battle

After a desperate effort the northern line rallied from this fierce attack it had received, and with volley after volley gradually forced the assailants to desist, driving them back almost to the mouth of their battery.

The Police Battalion and McCarthy Light Guards gave close pursuit, flanking the southern line on the right and completely cutting off a detachment of the Atlanta Zouaves.

When the Police Battalion was repulsed

When the Police Battalion was repulsed they left the ground strewn with dead and wounded, which gave a terrible aspect to the Both lines then stood their ground for a few minutes, when the Zouaves made a gailant charge, but were again driven back to the ain line. It seemed that the northern line was about to win the day, but again, just in the nick of time, the veterans came up to the support of the south line, and by a united advance forced the advanced posts of the north in. Here the firing subsided, and the band struck up "Dixle." This was the signal for an outburst of cheering from the spectators, in which the military joined.

The Grady Cadets were the last of the northern line to fall back to the main column. Both armies then formed in line of battle, facing each other, with the firing of only a few scattering shots.

At this juncture the Horse Guard dashed around the track and charged up the hill to where the northern battery was stationed.

After a lively charge Captain Miller and his men were victorious and the hill to when the men were victorious, and the battery was silenced.

This ended the engagement.
The great shan battle had been fought and won. But which side was victorious has not yet been told.

Battle Echoes.

Battle Echoes.

The fighting between the police and the Atlanta Zouaves was one of the features of the battle. The hand-to-hand encounters between these two detachments were entered into with a spirit that had a teiling effect.

Policeman R. C. Powell was quite badly hurt in a scuffle with several of the Zouaves. His shoulder was sprained, and his helmet was shot to pleoes. He will be unable to go on duty for some days.

Captain Hollis of the Zouaves had his hand burned by one of the police guns, and Policeman Patterson wears powder marks on his face as a result of the fray.

Private Bramlett of the Zouaves was severely wounded in the hand. He was trying to disarm one of the policemen, when his hand got torn on the site of the officer's rifle barrel.

Several other zouaves and policemen were slightly hurt.

Three or four zouaves tackled a big policeman and tried to take him captive. The policeman picked one of the zouaves up and threw him down in the mud, and, with the assistance of a conFade, completely paralyzed his assailants.

One of the cowboys who did the dead act, had painted blood marks on his face and neck.

When the people saw him lying in the mud with his gore-stained face upturned to the sun, quite a sensation resulted.

It took several policemen to keep the crowd back and prevent the crowd from getting on to the cowboy's little trick.

Dr. Lawshe, surgeon of the Grady Cadets, was in charge of the litter corps for the northern line and Dr. N. O. Harris, of Colonel Calhoun's staff, acted in the same capacity for the bouthern line.

The Winning Companies in the State Contest. Perry Rifles, first prize, $1,000.

Brunswick Riflemen, second prize, $500. Floyd Rifles, third prize, $250. That's the result in the state drill, as announced yesterday afternoon by the judges.

After the sham battle the troops formed on the north end of the race track and marched past the grand stand in review.

The line passed the reviewing stand in the following order.

Hon. W. A. Hemphill, John Clay Smith and Judge S. H. Landrum, riding at the head and Judge S. H. Landrum, riding at the head of the Confederate Veterans' column.

Then came the Fort Worth Fencibles, McCarthy Light Guards, Grady Cadets, Floyd Rifles, Sewanee Rifles, Police Battalion, Colonel W. L. Calhoun heading the Fourth Georgia Battalion, consisting of the Atlanta Zouaves, the Perry Rifles, Brunswick Riflemen, Governor's Horse Guard and the Atlanta Artillery.

After the review, the competing companies in the state contest were brought forward in front of the stand and the prizes awarded.

Judgs H. B. Hopkim presented the prizes in a few appropriate words, the winning companies with the money they won being as stated Judge Hopkins announced, in closing, that the interstate prizes would be awarded today. As each company received the check it had won, the spectators manifested their approval by the liberal applause bestowed.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., October 24 .- [Special. At the state fair today Thomas J. Mims and Miss Gertrude Pittman were married, and made a bridal tour in a balloon immediately after the ceremony. The balloon went up probably two miles and sailed away to the south, a very light wind blowing at the time They have not yet been heard from, and it is not known where they landed. Professor Baldwin, who was in charge of the balloon, expected to make a landing after going some thirty or forty miles. The couple are only twenty-one and eighteen years of age, but they had plenty of nerve for the novel bridal tour

A telegram from Helena, eighteen miles south of the city, says the balloon lander safely near that place, at 4 o'clock. The young couple are unhurt, and greatly enjoyed the novel experience. They return to the city tonight, and hold a public reception tomoriow.

Over 6,000 people were within the walls. The hall was elaborately decorated, a feature being that the hangings were composed exclusively of the stars and stripes. When several hundred members of the Union Veterans' Association with banners flying easiered the hall, as an escort to Mr. Reed, there began at once a scene of remarkable enthusiasm. It was a distinguished group that accompanied the guest of the evening—United States Senators Farrell and Cullom, Congressmen Adams and Butterworth, Chairman Jones, of the Illinois republican state central committee, and many others equally well known.

The Brotherhood Engineers.

PITTSBURG, Penn., October 24.-Today's ession of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was devoted to the election of first and second grand engineers. The vote is large, and it will probably be twenty-four hours before the result is known. At yesterhours before the result is known. At yester-day afternoon's session the committee on federation submitted majority and minority reports. The majority recommended a federation with railway employes in general, while the minority was opposed to affiliation with other organizations in any manner or form. After considerable discussion, the question of accepting the report was put to a vote and was defeated. The matter was then referred back to the committee, and the question of federation remains in statu quo.

COLUMBUS, O., October 24.—The extra session of the legislature, called by Governor Campbell to consider the alleged corruption in the municipal board at Cincinnati, concluded its business this afternoon, and adjourned to January 5, 1891, when the adjourned session begins. The bill became a law providing a non-partisan board of improvements for Cincinnati, to be appointed by Mayor Mosby, and to hold until April, when their successors shall be elected. Joint senate and house committees were appointed, one to investigate the working of the departments at Cincinnati, and another on the municipal plan and the best system of city government, both to report at the adjourned session.

a marked degree. The naval department had hardly begun to inquire into the amount of nickel on the market before it was found that the results of the tests had been seized upon abroad with remarkable celerity, and that there was to be keen competition in the market, already noted for vigorous and steady demand. In addition there were rumors of "corners" that were discomforting to officials who had expected to get an adequate supply of the metal at fair prices. These facts have led to an examifation of the possibilities of the United States as a nickel-porducing country. All of the nickel used here has been purchased abroad, Canada being the nearest source of supply.

From information coming in an unofficial way to the department rit appears, however, that there is a probability that the metal exist in this country in considerable quantity. It is asserted that mines of great value exist in Virginia. For obvious reasons persons making assertions refuse to designate their location. Meanwhile, acting upon expert reports, at least one company is organized to develop these mines, so that the navy department officers are hopeful that any considerable enhancement of the market price of the nickel will be met and counteracted by an increased supply from domestic sources.

WHAT THE LETTER BAYS.

Continuing he says:

I shall support the the ticket nominated by the convention in September, but in doing this by no means endorse the grave charges which have been made against the democratic party of the state. Honesty and integrity have marked every administration which has governed the state since Melrose Park Races. 18th, and we shall, indeed, be fortunate it our om-cials in the future shall be as able, as patriotic and as honest as they have been for the last four-teen years. I am compelled to support the Septem-ber ticket, because it was nominated by the dem-ocratic convention, and because the other ticket ROANOKE, Va., October 24.-First race, trotting 2:50 class, one mile, three in five, Checkmate won, Walter R. second. I regret deeply that this latter ticket has been brought out, though I have the greatest respect brought out, though I have the greatest respect for the gentlemen composing it, and I do not, for one moment, question the motives of those who nominated it. For the gallant and distinguished gentleman who is at its head, I entertain the high-A Big Reward Offered. RALEIGH, N. C., October 24.—[Special.]—Governor Fowle today offered $400 reward for H. G. Morrison, who murdered his wife on gentleman who is at its head, I entertain the highest possible regard and esteem. I cannot forget his eminent services to the state in peace and war. To him we were largely indebted for the success that crowned our efforts 1876, and there is no office in the gift of the state for which I would not earnestly and, cordially support him, were he endorsed by the recognized authority of the democratic party. All denunciation of him, and those whom he represents, is, in my opinion, unworthy of those who indulge in it, and it will only serve to enabitter the unfortunate strife which now divides our party. No one who knows Colonel Haskell can doubt his sincerity, his conscientiousness or his democracy. I certainly do George Vanderbilt's farm near Asheville. Edward Sullivan, of Philadelphia, Pa., grand-father of the murdered woman, has offered $500 reward for the murderer. The governor was today informed. Morrison is said to be eighteen years old, and very small in size. He is a quadroon and looks like a farm hand. His murder of his wife, Rheda Morrison, has caused much excitement in the western part of the state.

SHOT TO DEATH.

A WHITE MAN ASSASSINATED IN PU-LASKI

By a Colored Man Who Had a Grudge Against Him for Testifying in a Case in Court.

HAWBINSVILLE, Ga., October 24. - [Special.] Last night on the road leading through Pine Level, a suburb of Hawkinsville, just two miles from this place, Mr. C. H. Mitchell was assassinated in a most dastardly

Mr. Wiley Crosier and Charles H. Mitchell were driving home in a wagon, and they were followed at a distance of about forty yards by two other gentlemen.

THE ASSASSIN APPEARS. As the first wagon passed the schoolhouse, a man stepped out on the right hand side of the road and fired at Mr Mitchell. The shot went true to its mark entering the brain above the right ear and killing him instantly.

At the report of the pistol, the mule dashed forward and Mr. Crosier was thrown from the wagon, the fall breaking two of his ribs. The mule continued his flight until he arrived at the dead man's home, a distance of three or four miles from the scene of the assassination.

THE MURDERER ARRESTED. This morning, a negro, Jason Flowers, was arrested as the murderer, one of the gentlemen in the second wagon having recognized him by the flash of the pistol.

The negro had stated that he would be revenged on Mr. Mitchell for having testified in a case in the superior court in which he (Flowers) was convicted of a misde-

The coroner's jury returned a verdict, in substance, that the deceased came to his death by a pistol wound; that the crime was murder in the first degree, and that Jason Flowers was the assassin. The people in the Mitchell settlement are very much excited over the murder. The county officers feared that an effort would be made to lynch the negro, so they sent him to Macon this afternoon, guarded by one of the bravest and most resolute men in the

Mr. Varn, who was alleged to have been leading the rioters, states that he is able to prove that his advice to the negroes was in the interest of peace, and that he did his best to suppress riotous proceedings.

On the other hand, it is but fair to record that some people entertain a different view. While they admit that everything is quiet now at the scene of the double murder, yet over 200 men are pursuing the rioters, and great uneasiness prevails.

One of these people, referring to the presence of Varn in Waycross, says: "It is well for him that he is here, for the indignant citizens of Coffee and Ware would have him as high as Haman could they lay hands on him. The story about Thomas Sear shooting one of Varn's wagoners is false, as he is able to prove an alibi by more than half a dozen of the best citizens of Coffee county."

TOM WOOLFOLK

LOOKING DOWN THE LONG LANE OF ETERNITY.

He Will Certainly Swing from the Gallows on the 29th—He Says He Is Ready, and Has Become a Christian.

MACON, Ga., October 2t.—[Special.]—There now seems to be no help for Tom Woolfolk, and the indications are that he will surely hang on Wednesday, October the 29th, by the neck, at Perry, until he is dead.

THE CONSTITUTION is reliably informed today, by a party who is cer-tainly in position to know, that Woolfolk's attorney's will make no further effort in his behalf, and the execution on the scaffold will occur at the law's appointed time unless Wool-folk commits suicide or he dieg in his cell by the hand of providence in some natural manner. Captain Johnic Pautherferd is still in Athens, where he went a nort while ago to recuperate his health, which has not been good since Woolfolk's first trial in the winter of 1887.

It has been reported that Woolfolk has made a confession of guilt to Captain Ruth-erford, but as Captain Rutherford is not in town, THE CONSTITUTION could not get the report affirmed or denled. Parties very close to Captain Rutherford say, however, that they doubt any such confession having been made, and say the captain has never informed them that Woolfolk had confessed.

Editor Hodges, of The Perry Home Journal, had a long interview this week with Woolfolk. Mr. Hodges is in Macon today, and told THE CONSTITUTION of the interview, a synopsis of which is given here.

In answer to a question concerning any statement he proposed to make, Woolfolk said: "I've got nothing to say beyond what I have said time and again. I'm an innocent man, and will protest my innocence to the last. I didn't do what they say I did."

Continuing he said: "Life in prison is a life of torture, and I am ready to die. I would rather die now than to remain in prison another year."

He says he reads his Bible every day and night, and prays regularly. In reply to the remark:

"Tom, you are the most philosophical man in the face of death I ever saw," he said:
"Yes, because I expect to die on the 29th, and I am ready. I am trying to lead a Christian life, and I have repented and received forgiveness for my sins. I have given my heart to God, and my entire trust is placed in the mercy of my Savior, Jesus Christ."

He prefers the Baptist church to any other. He does not expect any further intercession in his behalf, and repeated the assertion that he was ready for the execution, and that he prefers death to continued confinement without hope of final release.

The execution will take place on Wednes day, the 29th, just on the western limit of the town, and near where Fanny Gresham branch empties into Big Indian creek. This is a valley of about five acres, surrounded by hills on three sides, a natural amphitheatre—af-fording room for 10,000 people or more.

The gallows on which Ed Johnson and Jim Butts, the Miller murderers, were hung, will be the last object Tom Woolfolk will touch in life-unless some stay of proceedings now unlooked for intervenes.

The arrangements will be completed by Monday night, at the latest, and a strong armed guard will be under the command of Sheriff Cooper on the 29th. Many believe that Woolfolk will confess to having committed the crime with which he tands charged, despite his incessant protestations of innocence. He is certainly a changed man, and he says continued imprisonment for more than three years would change any man for the better who believes in a God and a future life. He does not use profane language now, whereas eighteen months ago oaths frequently escaped

PRISONERS BURNED THE JAIL. And Made a Deperate but Unsuccessful

Effort to Escape. MACON, Ga., October 24.—[Special.]—Sheriff Scarborough, of Laurens county, arrived in | nating. Macon today with four negro prisoner, who burned down the jail at Dublin on Tuesday night and made a desper-ate effert to escape. The prisoners ate effort to escape. The prisoners have been brought to Macon for safe keeping in the jail here.

Editor J. A. Peacock, of The Dublin Post is in the city today, and he gives The Constution the following account of the jail burning: Tuesday night, about 10:30 o'clock, the Tuesday night, about 10:30 o'clock, the alarm of fire was sounded in Dublin by the ringing of the town bell. Those who heard it rushed to the scene of conflagration, which proved to be the county jail.

There were four prisoners in jail awaiting the January superior court: Turner Hill, charged with rape; Lewis Griffin, attempt to murder; Exam Pitts, stealing, and Pinck Flanders, for murder of his brother-in-law, Sam Montford.

It is evident that they are tired of jail life, and one of the number set fire to the building

It is evident that they are tired of jail life, and one of the number set fire to the building with the hope of liberating the whole party. But the fire got too much for them, and they were forced to call for help, which they did lustily, or perish in the flame. Jailer Hudson went to their rescue just in time to save them from the flames. As soon as he unlocked the door they made their last desperate effort to escape, but as each one passed the jailer, whom they had stunned with a blow, his son, Henry, who was standing a few steps below, tripped them, landing them at the botton of the steps in reversed positions. At this juncture the timely appearance of Marshal Cowart, Mr. George Bangs, and others with presented weapons, prevented the final "leave of absence" they so much desired.

so much desired.

The prisoners were given berths in the guardhouse, and guards placed on duty to prevent any further effort to escape.

IMPORTANT ARRIVALS.

Bondholders Are Here to Inspect th Covington and Macoa Road.

Macoa, Ga., October 24.—[Special.]—It is possible that the Covington and Macoa road will not be put up at public outery, as has been anticipated, but that it will be taken possession of by the bondholders, who will advance what money is necessary to prelieve present needs, and will operate it under a new management.

Last night Messts. Skipworth Wilmer, W. C. Shaw and Richard W. Venable, of Baltimore, representing the bondholders of the Covington and Macoa road, arrived in Macoa and registered at the Hotel Lanier. They are here to inspect the road and all its property, and some interesting developments may grow out of their visit. Covington and Macon Road.

Application for Bond. Macon, Ga., October 24.—[Special.]—Captain J. H. Smith, who was brought to Macon a few days and put in jail, charged with the murder of Renew, the man suspected of haying assassinated Captain J. C. Forsyth, was carried to Eastman today to be present at the hearing of a motion before Judge Roberts for his release from jail on bail. Hill & Harris and M. W. Wimberly represent Smith.

A Bad Accident.

Macon, Ga., October 24.—[Special.]—This afternoon, little Walter, the five-year old son of Jailer Nat Birdsong, fell off a fence and badly broke his arm. Walter is a splendid little follow, well liked by everybody, and there is much regret about the accident.

A Refrigerator Building.

Augusta, Ga., October 24.—[Special.]—Nelson, Morris & Co., the big meat packers, have contracted for a ratification building, to be put up in this city, at the corner of Walter A Bad Accident.

THE TRADES DISPLAY.

A VERY FINE DAY AND A GREAT CROWD.

The Display Is Prenounced to Have Been Successin Every Respect—Its Prin-cipal Features Described.

MACON, Ga., October 24.—[Special.]—Today was Macon's great trades' display. The affair was a brilliant and grand success in every particular. It was certainly the most elaborate thing of the kind ever seen in the state. Persons who saw the displays at Atlanta and Augusta say that Macon's far eclipsed them. It is estimated that at least 20,000 visitors were in the city, and the entire populace of Macon turned out. The streets were packed with a teeming mass of humanity. Macon has never known such a day in her history. She was beautifully arrayed in holiday attire. Houses and stores were elaborately and handsomely decorated, Flags were flying and bands playing. It was indeed a gala occaated with Macon's popular and enterprising evening paper, The News, and that journal, which commenced the work of arousing the people's interest in the movement, never ceased its efforts in behalf of the grand affair until the hour of the parade. In recognition of the services of The News, the management placed the very elegant float of The News at the head of the procession. Colonel William H. Ross was marshal of the day, assisted by George H. Plant, Charles Q. Carnes, Harry Mix and Samuel B. Hunter, as chiefs of divisions, and Paul Willingham, W. E. Dunwody, G. N. Porter and E. H. The State Fair. The state fair today reaped great benefit from the trades' display, for when the display was over about 1:30 o'clock, the thousands of spectators went to the fair grounds to view the exhibits and see the races. The day was very beautiful, the rains having passed away. All the indications are that the weather will be clear the balance of the fair, in which event the exhibition will prove a grand success.

Is it well With Your Kidneys?

Few appreciate the constant duties performed by the Kidneys, yet fewer appreciate how easily these important organs are deranged. The Kidneys are bean-shaped, filled with veins, arteries and little tubes; these tubes filter the water from the blood; the water thus collected is poured into the ureters, and by them conducted into the bladder.

into the bladder.

Another function of the Kidneys is to eliminate urea urid acid and other waste products which so quickly poison the whole system if left to course through the blood.

Now, when the Kidneys become diseased, and fail to discharge their important functions, the skip, liver, bowels and lungs undertake the work of elimination—a work these organs are unfitted to perform.

It is readily understood that with this unnatural condition of things the whole body will soon become diseased, and death, alas! will too often folcome diseased, and discount of the control of the Kidneys in good tone and you will preserve your health," is a motto worth remembers.

Stuart's Gin and Buchu is a true Kidney tonic. It is quickly taken up by the blood and is filtered out by the little Kidney tubes, and is consequently directly applied to the affected spots.

Pure, Brilliant, Perfect. Authentic Living Testimonials from Distinguished Generals and Statesmen

In Favor of Hawkes' New Crystallized Lenses Over All Others.

Testimonials from the leading physicians in the United States, governers, senators, legislators, stockmen, men of note in all professions and in different branches of trade, bankers, mechanics, etc., can be given who have had their sight improved by their use.

These glasses have won the admiration of all who have used them. They can be worn any length of time at one sitting and give a marvelous clearness of vision. They stand unrivaled in their splendid reputation.

Mr. Hawkes not only has the best glasses, but carefully examines the eye of each patient, and gives indespensable advice as to the proper selection of glasses, having had an experience of eighteen years in this branch of science.

SPECTACLE FRAMES Are an important part to be considered in the selection of spectacles. Some persons are very broad between the eyes, while others are quite narrow. It being necessary that the axis of the eye and that of the lenses should coincide, great care should be taken in their selection.

We give a few illustrations of perfect and imperfect fitting eye-glass and spectacle frames below.

IMITATIONS.

The market is full of imitations, represented to be the same as Hawkes' new crystallized lenses. These imitations are, in most cases, productive of positive injury to the eyes of the wearer. Many dealers will recommend inferior spectacles and eye-glasses, and those of lower price, which afford more profit to themselves.

Halstead on Hill.

Editor Murat Halstead, who is far from the scene of strife, has begun to make uths at Governor Hill on account of the coidness which he displays in carrying a car load of genuine democracy into McKinley's district. Editor Halstead is a very man, and not a bad-looking one when in repose, but when he begins to make mouths he ceases to be handsome, and his powerful style drops into flabbiness.

There are various things that Mr. Halstead has done and can do, but his experience with J. B. Foraker and others of that kidney ought to convince him that there are me things he cannot do, even with the aid of a Brooklyn republican organ. He annot, for instance, succeed in belittling the campaign that Governor Hill has been making in McKinley's district, nor can he, by a fluent use of the term "peanut statesman," draw public attention away from the fact that the reception of New York's democratic governor in Ohio has been the nature of a spontaneous and overwhelming ovation. Even the republian correspondents have remarked on these things, and, while they may be surprising to a man like Mr. Halstead who has seen proper to bury his talents in a suburb of New York city, it is a very easy matter to ount for them.

In the first place, Mr. Hill is governor of the great empire state of New York; in the second place, he is a democrat who believes roughly in the principles that he adcates; and, in the third place, the demotratic people, perceiving the nature and exent of the victories he has won in New York state, with the odds against him, instinctively feel that he is a leader worthy to

If the newspapers, both democratic republican, are to be believed, Governor Hill has succeeded in stirring up a perfect whirlwind of democratic m in McKinley's district, and it is admitted on all sides that the canvass he has made there has turned the tide in favor of the democratic candidate. Of the eches he has delivered in behalf of the nocratic party in McKinley's district, we have been permitted to read only scrappy ontlines, but even these show beyond ques tion that he has infused new life and die nity into the discussion, and that he has naged to imbue the democrats who have eard him with something of his own arnestness, energy and enthusiasm.

Mr. Halstead's chief complaint is, that ernor Hill is posing. as a candidate for presidency. If this is true, it is a laudaambition, and we may be permitted to may that when he poses in the direction of bringing about democratic success he is going at it in the right way. More important just now than even the presidency—which a matter for the future-is democratic ess in the congressional elections, and this Governor Hill is striving to bring about.

Signs in the West.

Some of our partisan contemporaries are convinced that democratic orators in the west are wasting the best part of their time In denouncing the McKinley bill, and the statement is made that their auditors know that there is no foundation for the dire results they predict.

We have it from them that the farmers of the west are perfectly satisfied with the bill and are sure that it will work out "all right In the end," and they are very generally warning these democratic orators to leave the west alone.

This is a sure sign that the democrats we the winning cards in the west; that the republicans know that the farmers are Aissatisfied, and in regard to this bill, they fear the very denunciations they deride in their partisan pages. It is evident that ocrats are gaining ground in the west, and that the work of democratic orators is exercising a wholesome influence ng the people, and they will not be frightened off by the criticisms of republican

Mr. McKinley has sought to enlist every ofluential republican in the country in his service. He sees that his popularity among his constituents is waning and that the facue is doubtful. In the far west the ablicans are disorganized; in some secons the party has split and a people's party, with decided democratic tendencies, een formed. The farmers of Kansas are in revolt. The voice of Ingalls is owned by the indignant protests of the ple and the chances for democratic sucess are bright. The "democratic orators" are at work there! It is vain for republican newspapers to t to bolster up Mr. McKinley's inous bill and to seek to pacify the people ising its various provisions and holdout the hope that it will result in future fit to the country. The people are ser than the politicians.

Republican Campaign Funds.

The New York World, in discussing the etical situation in the south, says that ican party in a number of southern is without organization and leadership. nt our contemporary is mistaken when it ts that the party receives no support m the national republican headquarters oodle," as The World puts it.

It is true that while a partisan republican jorlty in congress, against all precedent, of right and justice, can bar the s on legally elected democrats and coun thern allies in, it is not absolutely ry for a republican candidate in the th to have a majority. The mere fact was a candidate for office and was ed, is enough. Fraud is presumed none exists, and the republican takes his seat. Hence the idea that republican "boodle" is not needed in southern districts. But, for all that, republican money is at work in nearly every section of the south where the party is strong enough to make a showing. And this is notably the case in Georgia, where republican leaders have rallied their scattered forces for the congressional fight. This money is keeping the party alive here. It comes from Washington, and has been scattered broadcast through a number of districts where the democrats are antagonized by the republicans. The charge has been made that the fourth district in this state has been flooded with it, and the republicans are trying to buy the election of their candidate. The fact is, wherever republican "boodle" is needed it is always forthcoming, and the party is making a more determined fight in the south than heretofore. Though scattered through the states in small handfuls, the republicans are sticking closer together, and are well organized.

The democrats should not allow themselves to be lulled into a false sense of security by the statement that the enemy is weak and has no reinforcements in the rear. Every man who has sworn allegiance to the democratic party should emphasize that allegiance with his vote, and the full strength of the party should be registered in the coming congressional elections.

Information for a Contemporary.

The Nashville American seems to be very nuch troubled in the mind about the demo cratic party in Georgia, the Farmers' Alliance, the subtreasury plan and the attitude of THE CONSTITUTION. Taking its cue from some of our belated contemporaries, who have never on any occasion been really in touch with the people, and who devote the most of their time to abusing THE CON STITUTION, our Nashville contemporary proceeds to comment on a situation in Georgia that exists only in the imagination of those who have been trying for several months to stir up strife in Georgia,

The American calmly states that it knows the democratic party in Georgia "is threatened by the sharp divisions in its ranks caused by this very question," meaning the subtreasury plan. And yet, if The American knows anything about the situation, it ought to know that no such division is threatened by the subtreasury plan, for that plan is not even up for discussion. It would have been a very easy matter to have stirred up the sort of strife our contemporary is deploring if THE CONSTITUTION had permitted itself to be drawn into an unnecessary discussion of the subtreasury measure. But this has been avoided, and the measure is not an issue in the democratic party in Georgia, and has not been.

It is true, there are democratic papers which are doing their utmost to treat it as an issue, and which seem to be making an effort to drive the farmers out of the party, but the influence of these papers is not as large as it might be and their utterances have no weight.

There is one fact to which we desire to call the attention of The American, so as to relieve the tension of its powerful mind, and that is this: When the democratic state convention met in Atlanta during the summer, the majority of the delegates were democratic alliancemen. They had control of the body and the making of its utterances; but when the platform made its appearance there was no mention made of the subtreasury plan. The measure had been deliberately shelved for the sake of democratic harmony and unity. The situation, therefore, is this: While the democratic alliancemen themselves have refused to make an issue of the measure in the democratic party, there are some editor who persist in regarding it as an issue, and, in their blindness, they are quite willing to drive the farmers out of the party-if they

Professor H. C. White.

In the retirement of Professor H. C. White from the office of state chemist, Geor gia sustains a positive loss.

Several weeks ago the professor gave notice that he would not accept reappointment. His election to the presidency of the State Agricultural College, and the proposed removal of the office of the state chemist to Atlanta, decided his course. He felt that it was his duty to resign the latter position and devote his time and energies to the institution of which he is the head.

Professor White is one of the most dis tinguished chemists in the country. He has made the office he held in Georgia what it is, and his long service and devotion to his favorite science has been of far-reaching benefit to the public. As the president of the State Agricultural College it is safe to predict for him a career of extended usefulness. In the ranks of our men of science it would be difficult to point out one of his age who has achieved as much in the past, or whose future gives equal promise of brilliant or solid results.

A New Style of Reporting.

The Illustrated American has a new feature. It utilizes the methods of the reporter in a literary way.

In recent issues this bright and original periodical dresses up the Birchall-Benwell nurder and the McGonegal-Goodwin tragedy in the shape of stories. All the names, dates and important facts are used, but uninteresting and coarse details are eliminated. Fancy follows on the heels of fact, and supplies graphic touches of description and dialogue. It is all life-like and realistic. The readers of these reporting stories get as clear an idea of the facts as they would from the columns of the daily papers, and enjoy all the pleasure that they would desire from reading fiction. In its current issue The American takes the corrupt and startling career of Matt Quay, and, while sticking closely to the generally accepted version turns it into a thrilling sketch. Quay's sudden rise from poverty and obscurity, his dishonest tampering with the treasury of his state, his wild orgies and his desperate plight, when in hourly dread of exposure he told a friend that he was trying to decide whether to cut his throat or drown himselfall these matters are portrayed with great power. Then we are told how Don Came eron came to the rescue, and for the sake of the party and Quay's family paid the $100, 000 deficit in the treasury. The stirring narrative ends with Quay's vindication by his election to the office of state treasure and his promotion to the chairmanship of the national republican committee.

This experiment is already a success, and it will make its influence felt upon the writers of the day. But if it is a good thing to throw the reporter into literature, why would it not be just as well to throw literature into the reporter? What we mean is this: If people rush after a magazine in which the actual events of real life are set forth with all the charms of fiction, why not engraft this feature upon our daily papers, when the reporter has a sensation that has sufficient tragedy or romance in it to make worthy of such treatment?

Perhaps we are entering on an era of journalism in which the Thackerays and Dickenses of our time will win fame and fortune as special writers or reporters on our great newspapers. The daily press is rapidly absorbing everything that the people desire to read. Its facts have been borrowed by the novelist, and it will get even by borrowing the imagination and the style of the novelist.

Campaign Slanders.

With certain Georgia newspapers the present campaign is one of abuse alone. In the effort to weaken the influence of candidates to whom they are opposed, they are quick to seize on every slander which is manufactured by a man's political enemies and to give the same the publicity and endorsement of their columns.

We had hoped that we would have been spared much of the abuse which has entered into this campaign, but the hope has not been realized. A Georgia newspaper recently made charges of the most infamous nature against Hon. L. F. Livingston, the democratic nominee for congress from this district. They were slanders invented for political purposes. The names of some of the most distinguished gentlemen in the state were offered in evidence-as witnesses to the truth of these charges.

But what is the result? Governor-elect Northen was said to be one of these witnesses. But he has declared that the charges against Colonel Livingston are untrue. The other gentlemen who were mentioned likewise deny all knowledge of the conduct with which Colonel Livingston is charged. One by one they step forward and vindicate him.

Colonel J. M. Mobley's name was down as one of these witnesses. In yesterday's Enquirer-Sun that gentleman also vindicates Colonel Livingston in emphatic terms.

"Thus Are Campaign Slanders Exploded" was the substance of Colonel Livingston's reply to his defamers. He asked or an instant and thorough investigation of the charges, and the result is his complete vindication.

GOSSIP IN THE CORRIDORS.

Colonel McHenry, ex-mayor of Madison was in the city last night, having just re turned from a visit through the seventh congressional district. "From what I could learn on my trip," said the colonel, "Dr. Felton is gradually gaining strength, and the indica-tions are that he will be elected unless the supporters of Everett can make a better showing at the polls than they are making now. The impression conveyed to me by politicians that I met is that the old doctor is going to make a very lively race. I was also informed by men who are in a position to know that Governor Gordon was gaining strength. In my district, the eighth, Mr. Lawson, who has no tion, will be easily elected to congress.'

A well-known newspaper man who has been bitterly opposed to Dr. Felton all through the present campaign was seen at the Kimball last night. "As you well know," said he, "I have not favored Dr. Felton's candidacy, but a recent visit to the seventh district where I met and mingled with prominent men who represent both factions in the congressional race forces me to change my opinion as to the result. From what I ca learn-and I believe the information to be reliable-Dr. Felton has gained material strength, and, as the indications now point to a strong support for him from the negro vote, I am led to believe that Dr. Felton will be elected to the next congress.

"I see from Gossip in the Corridors," said a well-known Columbus man, who knows the history of his native city and her people thoroughly, "that some good democrats and business men of the fourth congressional district will vote for Walter Johnson for congress upon the ground that he is a clever ma cially, and being a good republican will be in a position to secure a custom house and other advantages for Columbus that a democrat could not obtain on account of Johanon's in fluence with the republican party. Now before these good democrats make up their minds to support the republican candidate, it might not be amiss for them to inquire of the older citizens where Walter Johnson stood in the dark days of reconstruction, and in what direction his influence was thrown when a number of the best and truest young men of Columbus were put in jeop-ardy of their liberty and their lives."

Colonel A. H. Machen, the well-known railroad man, was in Atlanta last night, and being in a talkative humor, discussed the railroad situation. "I read your 'Railroad Rumblings' with much interest," said he, "for I am compelled to rely upon THE CONstitution for my railroad news. In regard to new frailroad enterprises gard to new frailroad enterprises now contemplated I would say that a direct line of railroad from Atlanta to Savannah can be built in 240 miles. This short line can be built and equipped for less money than the fifty-four miles that would be aved, is now capitalized for.

With a short line built to the sea coast and entirely independent of all other lines, the cheapness of its cost would enable it to do business for so much less than is done at present: it could declare handsome dividends

It was afterwards learned that in the early settlement of Carolina an old batchelor left in his will $10,000 to anyone who would place-his bones in an iron box, and burn over it 100 cords of pine wood. One key was to be placed in a bottle filled with lead and dropped into a hole in Cooper river, where bottom was never found, and the other left in the coffin. A poor young man complied with the will and was paid $10,000. The rest of the old man's money he buried, and no one ever found it. He believed that if a person's body was burned in this world, he would escape fire in the next. The iron chest is doubtless still where it was left.

HE GIVES REED A PASSING NOTICE.

Says the Speaker is Held Up as a Hero by His Party When He is Nothing More Than a Bully.

WHEELING, W. Va., October 24 .- Governor Hill and party arrived in Wheeling this aftermoon from Massillon, O. On the way here crowds throughd the stations and cheered the governor as he passed through. On arrival here a large crowd met him and escorted him to the hotel where a reception was held lasting three hours, during which prominent democrats of the state paid their respects. The governor spoke in the opera house tonight to an andience only limited by the capacity of the hall. The governor said in part: The democratic party may justly be considered the friend of labor. Its whole record has been characterized by solicitude for the interests of those who earn their daily bread by the sweat of their brows. At least one-half of its ranks are recruited from the laboring classes, and, therefore, an enlightened self-interest, if no other motive, has dictated an honest move to favor measures beneficial to the workingmen. This attitude is not indicative of a hostile disposition towards the manufacturing interests of the country. We believe in the encouragement of domestic industries in every legitimate manner; not by the imposition of unnecessary and unreasonable taxes upon other interests for their exclusive benefit; but recognizing the fact that the best or easiest methods to raise revenues needed for the support of the government is by tariff duties and imports, we are desirous that in the adjustment of details of such duties due regard should be had to the claims of home industries by imposing of details of such duties due regard should be had to the claims of home industries by imposing sufficient rates to amply compensate labor and afford manufacturers a fair profit without creating monopolies. We have not advocated, and do not advocate, free trade, but insist that the interests of the great body of the people must be consulted in framing just and reasonable tariff measures. All interests have rights which are entitled to be protected from governmental favoritism. We nother war upon the manufacturing interests on the one hand, nor do we unwisely or offensively champion the cause of their employes on the other. Our opponents assert that we antagonize the true interests of manufacturers in our anxiety to relieve the burdens of the laboring people. I deny the statement. We would not extract a single iota from the credit due the manufacturers of the country to which they are fairly entitled for their energy, perseverance and enterprise in building up our country. We concede they may be protected from unjust or unfair foreign competition, whenever it can reasonably be done under our tariff system without the abuse of power of taxation. If they insist upon a tariff so high and exorbitant as to amount to practical prohibition, as in the case of the McKinley bill, their demands must be refused. Our people should never consent to a Chinese wail of restrictive legislation being placed around our borders, even at the behest of home industries, which we desire to foster at every proper way.

Our opponents assert that the policy which we advocate tends to lower the wages of the laboring men, because they must compete with the under paid workmen of Europe. The proposition is as insolent as it is unfounded. It is distinct yelfuted by the principles set forth in the democratic national platforms of the last two presidential years. A plain and simple interpretation of this platform is, we believe, in recognizing the demands of labor and we propose to shield our workmen from such competion as can justly be considered as unfair. For instance, if it costs $2 for labor to produce certain manufactured articles in foreign countries, while it costs $4 for labor to produce the same article in this country, then we haver a tariff of $2 upon that article, in order to equalize the difference in wages. An imposition of that amount amply protects American workmen, and prevents his being placed at a disadvantage. This is all the tariff any intelligent American workingman ever desired.

The position of the democratic party upon the tariff question is a conservative one. It has not mortgaged itself to any class; it seeks the good of all; favors the protection of labor, so far a such protection is possible under the tariff, whereby necessary revenues shall be limited to the necessities of government, economically administered. Within those limits we freely concede that discriminations should and may be made to aid the cause of the American workmen. The democratic party is fighting the selfishness of all those interests which, accustomed to government to aid them in their private business ventures. With them politics is a matter of business. They try to purchase the suffrages of the people in order to control legislation to serve personal ends.

After discussing the force bill, rulings of Speaker Reed and the action of congress in ousting members, the governor said:

The republican speaker of the house of representatives is a hero now in the estimation of our opponent. It is strange this should be so, but then it should be remembered, we are in the midst of fan f-ra of intense partisanship, when audaeity counts for courage, impudence usurps the place of propriety, bullying is regarded as firmnes, and a course wit passes for a statesman. Let the unserupulous speaker enjoy his brief honors. For brief will lisurely be. It is a sad commentary upon the republican party, when outrageous unrainness alone makes the perpetrator the idol of his party. It does not require the quality of courage to arbitrarily refuse the minority their parliamentary rights. An arrant coward can do that when he is urged on and backed up by the uninority.

DRUMMERS' DAY.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING OF THE SOUTHERN TRAVELERS.

Another Meeting to Be Held Tonight, When the Final Arrangements for Drumers' Day Will Be Made.

The Southern Travelers' Association, is one of the most influential organizations in the south today.

The headquarters of this grand organization of the representatives of the business of the south, are in the old capitol building.

The beauty and elegance of these apart-nents have been described in these columns a number of times.

for the great reception on "Drummers' Day," next Monday, at the Piedmont exposition. An urgent request is extended to every commercial man in Atlanta to be present at the meeting.

Hundreds of merchants outside of the city will visit the exposition on that day, and it will be expected that the Southern Travelers' on will entertain them.

It is very essential that all committees on badges, refreshments and other arrangements shall hand in their reports at the meeting tonight, so that the final managements may bo completed in detail.

It is the desire of the commercial men of the city to make Drummers' Day the biggest day that has ever dawned in the city of Atlanta, the head and center of the Southern Travelers' Association.

The meeting will be held in the association

The meeting will be held in the association rooms in the old capitol, and will begin at 7:50 o'clock this evening. The general hotel committee of the southern district is now in Bession, and Messrs. Guy L. Harvard, of Macon, Ga.; O. S. Lee, of Augusta, Ga.; and Charles Brannan, of Atlanta, are in attendance. Representatives from Savannah, Jacksonville, Fla., Rome, Ga., Birmingham, Ala., and Chattanooga, Tenn., are expected today.

The object of this committee is to receive roports from the various branches in regard to making contracts with hotels, and to consider all grievances reported in the district, so that they were wildly cheered, the inspiring old "rebol yell," as it pealed from their throats, awakening new enthusiasm in the hearts of the spectators. The sight of the noble old soldiers, clad in their modest suit of gray, grasping firmly in their mained and gray, grasping firmly in their modest suit of gray, grasping firmly in their maimed and scarred hands their trusty old musket, and charging their enemy at a run, was an inspiration to those who had never experienced the terrible brunt of war and a sight that revived many sacred recollections in the hearts of their comrades who looked on.

Led on by the victory of the veterans, the mothern column charged the northern line.

After a desperate effort the northern line rallied from this fierce attack it had received, and with volley after volley gradually forced the assailants to desist, driving them back almost to the mouth of their battery.

The Police Battalion and McCarthy Light Guards gave close pursuit, flanking the southern line on the right and completely cutting off a detachment of the Atlanta Zouaves.

When the Police Battalion was repulsed they left the ground strewn with dead and wounded, which gave a terrible aspect to the Beene.

Both lines then stood their ground for a few minutes, when the Zouaves made a gallant charge, but were again driven back to the main line. It seemed that the northern line was about

It seemed that the northern line was about to win the day, but again, just in the nick of time, the veterans came up to the support of the south line, and by a united advance forced the advanced posts of the north in.

Here the firing subsided, and the band struck up "Dixie." This was the signal for an outburst of cheering from the spectators, in which the military joined.

The Grady Cadets were the last of the northern line to fall back to the main column. Both armies then formed in line of battle, facing each other, with the firing of only a few

The fighting between the police and the Atlanta Zodaves was one of the features of the battle. The hand-to-hand encounters between these two detachments were entered into with a spirit that had a teiling effect.

Policeman R. C. Powell was quite badly hurt in a scuffle with several of the Zouaves. His shoulder was sprained, and his helmet was shot to pieces. He will be unable to go on duty for some days.

Captain Hollis of the Zouaves had his hand burned by one of the police guns, and Policeman Patterson wears powder marks on his face as a result of the fray.

Private Bramlett of the Zouaves was severely wounded in the hand. He was trying to disarm one of the policemen, when his hand got torn on the site of the officer's rifle barrel.

Mims and Miss Gertrude Pittman were married, and made a bridal tour in a balloon immediately after the ceremony. The balloon went up probably two miles and sailed away to the south, a very light wind blowing at the time. They have not yet been heard from, and it is not known where they landed. Professo Baldwin, who was in charge of the balloon, expected to make a landing after going some thirty or forty miles. The couple are only twenty-one and eighteen years of age, but they had plenty of nerve for the novel bridal tour. A telegram from Helena, eighteen miles south of the city, says the balloon landed safely near that place, at 4 o'clock. The young couple are unhurt, and greatly enjoyed the novel experience. They return to the city tonight, and hold a public reception to-

REED IN CHICAGO.

The Speaker of the House Draws a Large

CHICAGO, October 24 .- Accommodations for the largest political gathering in Chicago had to be doubled tonight to make room for the throng that attempted to hear Speaker Reed. The doors were locked at Battery Darmory fully an hour before the hour announced for the beginning of the evening mass meeting to be addressed by Reed. Over 6,000 people were within the walls. The hall was elaborately decorated, a feature being that the hangings were composed exclusively of the stars and stripes. When several hundred members of the Union Veterans' Association with banners flying eatered the hall, as an escort to Mr. Reed, there began at once a scene of remarkable enthusiasm. It was a distinguished group that accompanied the guest of the evening—United States Senators Farrell and Cullom, Congressmen Adams and Butterworth, Chairman Jones, of the Illinois republican state central committee, and many others equally well known.

Which Is Regarded as Stronger for Haskell Than for Tillman, COLUMBIA, S. C., October 24.-[Special.]-For the past week the people of the state have been anxiously waiting for a promised letter from Senator Wade Hampton.

It came this evening. General Hampton writes in response to State Chairman Irby, who requested him to take the stump in the interest of Captain Tillman. The document is considered as favorable to the Haskell ticket, for while Senator Hampton premiers that the transfer of the Tillman Hampton premiers that the transfer of the Tillman Hampton premiers that the transfer of the Tillman Hampton transfer transfer of the Tillma ton promises to vote for the Tillman ticket, he eulogizes Haskell. It is far from what the

I shall support the the ticket nominated by the convention in September, but in doing this by no means endorse the grave charges which have been made against the democratic party of the state. Honesty and integrity have marked every administration which has governed the state since 1876, and we shall, indeed, be fortunate if our officials in the future shall be as able, as patriotic and as honest as they have been for the last four-teen years. I am compelled to support the Septem-ber ticket, because it was nominated by the demcratic convention, and because the other ticket lacks that endorsem

For the gallant and distinguished gentleman who is at its head, I entertain the highgentleman who is at its head, I entertain the highest possible regard and esteem. I cannot forget his eminent services to the state in peace and war. To him we were largely indebted for the success that crowned our efforts 1876, and there is no office in the gift of the state for which I would not earnestly and, cordially support him, were he endorsed by the recognized authority of the democratic warty. All desupposition of blee

All denunciation of him, and those whom he represents, is, in my opinion, unworthy of those who indulge in it, and it will only serve to embitter the unfortunate strife which now divides our party. No one who knows Colonel Haskell can doubt his sincerity, his concientiousness or his democracy. I certainly do HASKELL'S MISTAKE. And whilst I think he has made a great mistake in lending his name and influence to the movement inaugurated by his friends, I shall not denounce the man who was my comrade in war, who was one of the ablest and bravest officers in my command, and who was my trusted friend and advisor in 1876.

I do not venture to offer advice to my fellowcitizens, for my last honest effort to do so fell un heeded, but I do appeal to them by the glorious memories of '76, by all our hopes for the enduring prosperity of our state, to avoid all semblance of violence in the conduct of the election. Let every man who holds the honor of our state dear, con-stitute himself a special guardian of the peace, and let us prove to those who traduce us that whatever differences may exist in our party, we can settle it at the ballot box without resorting to dation, to fraud or to violence.

A CORNER IN NICKEL.

The Demand for the Metal by the Navy Department Causes Some Inquiry.

WASHINTGON, October 24.-Additional rewashintgon, October 22.—Additional results of recent tests of armor plate at Annapolis are still coming to light. A demonstration of the superiority of nickel and steel alloy and the immediate appropriation of congress of $1,000,000 for the purchase of a quantity of nickel with which to alloy naval steel, had the effect of stimulating the nickel market to a marked degree. The naval department had hardly begun to inquire into the amount of nickel on the market before it was found that the results of the tests had been seized upon abroad with remarkable celerity, and that there was to be keen competition in the market, already noted for vigorous and steady demand. In addition there were rumors of "corners" that were discomforting to officials who had expected to get an adequate supply of the metal at fair prices. These facts have led to an examifation of the possibilities of the United States as a nickel-producing country. All of the nickel used here has been purchased abroad, Canada being the nearest source of supply.

From information coming in an unofficial way to the department it appears, however, that there is a probability that the metal exists in this country in considerable quantity. It is asserted that mines of great value exist in Virginia. For obvious reasons persons making assertions refuse to designate their location. Meanwhile, acting upon expert reports, at least one company is organized to develop these mines, so that the navy department officers are hopeful that any considerable enhancement of the market price of the nickel will be met and counteracted by an increased supply from domestic sources. from domestic sources

THE CIRCUS TODAY.

BARNUM & BAILEY'S BIG SHOW REACHES ATLANTA

And Will Give Two Entertainments-The Tents Up on the Big Lot on Jack son Street, Near Wheat.

Barnum's big show reached Atlanta this

And the tents are now going up on Jackso street, near Wheat.

The show entertained all of Spalding county yesterday at Griffin, and every lady went away thoroughly pleased with what they saw. The circus is the largest even soon in the south and the tents cover more ground than was ever put under canvas on Georgia soil before Two entertainments will be given in the afterneon and one at night.

In the afternoon the circus feature will be presented first and "Nero" afterward. Each feature will consume over one hour, and in the evening the features will be reversed. The scenery produced in "Nero" is the finest ever seen in this country. It was painted especially for this production in and is worth a fortune Hundreds of the finest artists in their

Brit Davis, than whom no circus has a better press agent, dropped into The Constitution last night, saying:

"The trains are coming in now. We have four sections. The first left Griffin at 11 b'clock, and the others followed as rapidly as nossible."

possible."
"Have a big crowd in Griffin?" he was asked. "Everybody was there and the day was de-lightful. Do you know that we have had only three rainy days all this season."
"Have you had a good season?"
"I don't know of anything I'd rather have you say than something about the phenomenal

"It isn't often that a circus knocks out a big exposition, a democratic convention, a state fair, and an entertainment like "The Last Days of Pompeii" all in one round, but that is what we did in Minnesota. We had just that list of counter attractions against what we did in Minnesota. We had just that list of counter attractions against "us up there and we filled our tent at every performance." It was more than we expected, and in all candor our success was phenomenal. Even Mr. Bailey, old amusement manager that he is, was surprised and even astonished."
"But," he added, his face assuming a confidential expression, "it wasn't much to be wondered at, either, for we have the greatest attraction on earth, sure."
"Divide the shows for the small cities? No, sir, not by any means. You've heard such a sir, not by any means. You've heard such a thing intimated, eh? Well, the next time any one suggests the possibility, you can tell him he is crazy—that is, if you are bigger than he." Such an idea is absord. In the first place

Messrs. Barnum & Bailey are not that kind of men. If a town is worth having our shows at all, it is certainly worth having them all. Our policy is to treat every city we visit impartially and to show no favor to one over another. Then again it would be impossible to divide our attractions and give an entertainment as it our attractions and give an entertainment as it would be for you to divide your press and get out an issue. It couldn't be done. Another thing: Suppose the shows could be divided, what would we do with the two portions? We couldn't advertise in two towns the same date without having the fraud discovered, and the injury which would result to the reputation of the management would offset the small pecuniary gain a hundred times over, and our proprietors have too much at take to take any such risks."

"No, sir," he continued emphatically, "there will be no divided shows. The entire circus, menagerie, hippodrome, Roman pageants and spectacular performances will be given here just as they were in New York, Chicago or any of the big cities. An Atlanta man's money is worth just as much as a New York man's, and Barnum & Bailey will give him just as much for it."

"I would like for you to say that the Kiralfy with the "Water Queen" is Bolossy, and that "Nero" has Imre Kiralfy.

"The street parade? Oh, yes, it will be the finest ever seen in the south, and it will move at 10.20"

"And that reminds me of something I was asked yesterday, whether the spectacle, 'Nero, or the Destruction of Rome,' was a part of the main performance or was given separate and additional admission charged. I thought every-body understood this, but for fear some do not you had better say that although the great spectacle is given immethe great spectacle is given immediately after the ring performance, it is just as much a part of the show as any other act given, and one ticket of admission pays for all. 'Nero' will be given at the afternoon performance with the same elaborate effects and attention to detail as at night, and I tell you it's an inspiring sight. On one side of the big tent is the mammoth stage, and the and attention to detail as at night, and I tell you it's an inspiring sight. On one side of the big tent is the mammoth stage, and the vast space in front of it is occupied by hundreds of men and women and big droves of dashing horses. On the other are the seats filled with 15,000 spectators, a veritable sea of faces, and if a man's breast is capable of any emotion whatever it is certainly aroused as his gaze goes out upon that scene. It is grandeur itself, and as many times as I have witnessed it I always find something of added interest in the spectacle."

"No, Mr. Barnum doesn't travel with the shows. He is getting too far advanced in years for that. He was with us at Chicago for a few days, but left for his home in Connecticut before we had concluded our engagement in that city. Mr. Bailey is always with us, and next to Mr. Barnum he is certainly the greatest showman in the world. To his natural ability and aptitude for the business, combined with rarely equaled executive quallies, is due much of the wonderful success attained by the shows."

LAST NIGHT'S SHOW.

Great Crowds Witness a Beautiful Pyrotechnic Display.

There was a brilliant programme given at the exposition grounds last night.

The Wild West show was at its best last

To see this show beneath the light of electricity is to see its charms most forcibly. The attacks on Trapper Tom's cabin were very real when the performance was finished the fireworks were touched off, and to say that the show was a most successful one is to but faintly represent the brilliancy with which it passed off, or the great way in which it was teasired by the concourse oil people.

There was a grand stand full of people there, and they universally agree that the fireworks are fully as grand as any ever seen on the grounds before.

A SCARCITY OF RENTING HOUSES Colonel George W. Adair Has a Word to Say on the Situation.

If there is any man in Atlanta who is com-petent to talk on real estate and rents, it is Colonel George W. Adair. He knows the business from A to Izzard,

"there have been built over a thousand houses in Atlanta. Naturally we real estate men expected that the erecting of all these new homes would necessarily produce an oversupply of vacant houses—houses to rent. "But," he continued, "I have positively been surprised at the result. It seems that as soon "as one man moved out somebody else came right along and filled the vacancy. Colonel Adair was asked about the quality of houses most in demand.

"They rent about as well in one part of the city as in another," he remarked, "but there is one thing that is becoming more and more noticeable every day. That is the demand for a better class of houses. Not that renters, as a rule, want large houses, but rather that they require nice, comfortable places, even if they are only four or five rooms.

ATLANTA HOSPITALITY. An Earnest Appeal That Will Come Directly Home. The hospitality of Atlanta has never been questioned.

For that reason the appeal of the ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union carries with it all the more force.

Ya

Carries with it all the more force.

This beasted hospitality is about to be put to an extraordinary test.

From the 14th to the 18th of November there will be from 500 to 600 of the most prominent women of the country in the city.

They are the delegates to the annual convention of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and it behooves the city to look after their proper entertainment.

The local assemblies have been hard at work for quite awhile, to secure homes for the visitors. They have not, so far, secured the money nec-for quite awhile, to secure homes for the visitors. They have not, so far, secured the money necessary to pay the hotel bills of these delegates, and even if they had they feel that it is due these ladies, who belong to the most refined and intelligent class of American women, that the people of Atlanta open their hearts and homes for their entertainment.

In other cities of the north and west where In other cities of the north and west wher this convention has met, the delegates have on tendered every possible courtesy, and the sults have shown that these kindnesses exresults have shown that these kindnesses tonded were like bread cast upon the waters, the fruits of which have been gathered—not after many days—but in attered—not after many days—out in a very few days after.

The convention has never been held thus far south previously, and it will be an era in the history of the city.

And as a matter of course, there is not a man or woman in the city but what is ready to extend to them a most cordial welcome.

Will they be properly entertained? Of course they will.

At the Theater.

The "Water Queen," a speciacular play in three acts, was greeted by a large audience at DeGive's last evening. The play contained only enough plot to frame in numerous ballets, scenic spectacles on the fantastic order, and various attempts at singing.

The ballet corps was the chief feature of the evening, and it called forth hearty applianse by means of the excellent costumes, the fancy steps and brisk execution of all the numbers. The singing was exceedingly poor, nothing but spoilt voices being on the programme.

The scenic effects were novel, artistic and well staged. Several of the tableaux provoked applianse. Mile. Rodmann captured the audience with her spirited solo dances, displaying wonderful powers in the tip-toe movements, and in every way proving herself to be a danseuse of the first class.

For those who love the fantastic and speciacu-r, as well as the light capers of an able ballet orps, the "Water Queen" will prove to be a big itraction.

A ROMANTIC WEDDING

An Ex-Journalist of Atlanta Weds His Lady Love.

Mr. Murdock Lind, formerly of this city, but now of Baltimore, a bright young journalist, was wedded to Miss Minnie Eppes, a beautiful and wealthy young lady, on September 21, 1830.

was wedded to Miss Minnie Eppes, a beautiful and wealthy young lady, on September 21, 1890.

There is quite a little romance connected with the wedding, the parents of the bride, who is very young, having objected to the wedding and having brought the young wife back home and placed her under close surveilance for some time. Finally a reconciliation was brought about, and a happy reunion occurred a few days ago in Baltimore, where the bride and groom are residing at present. Mr. E. G. Lind, father of the groom, went to Baltimore to participate in the reunion, and the reconciliation has been arranged so that the course of true love runs smoothly, and the newly married couple are perfectly happy.

Use Pond's Extract for over-tired, weak and sore eyes; effect is magical. When?

When sores break out on your person, when pimples cover your face, when you feel weak and debilitated, and your nervous system feels shattered, when you have aches and pains, when your appetite fails, when you are troubled with dyspepsia, when there is a general functional derangement and life hardly seems worth living, give Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla a trial and you will be delighted at its pleasing effect. As a general health restorer and strengthener of the whole system it is superior to any other compound. It will not harm the most delicate invalid and has saved thousands from a report tire graye. You wrong yourself from a premature grave. You wrong yourself when you delay giving it a trial.

Many a poor little sickly child has been saved from the grave by its kind mother giving it Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyers, which the little one thought was candy.

A New Show to Be Seen. Visitors to the city should not leave Atlanta without viewing Dr. King's Royal Germeture building, 14 North Broad street, and calling for a book containing a history of the remarkable cures performed by this wonderful remedy. BITS OF LOCAL NEWS GATHERED BY REPORTERS.

News of the City Briefly Told-Leaves from Men Carry.

Colonel Dick Dow.—Among the visitors to the exposition is Colonel Dick Dow, auditor of the custom house at Savannah. Colonel Dow is taking in the exposition for a day or two. Meeting Postponed.—The meeting of the board of education, that was to have occurred yesterday, was postponed on account of a number of the members of the board being connected with the exercises at the Piedmont exposition.

A Veteran of Three Wars.—Major Henry Holliday, of Valdosta, has been in the city in attendance on the State Veterans' Association. Major Holliday is a veteran of three wars. He was in the Indian war of 1836, served as a captain in the Mexican war and as a major in the confederate army.

She Wants Her Husband .-- Mrs. S. A. Taylor who resides at State Road postoffice, Surry county, N. C., sends this card to THE CONSTITUTION:
Can any reader of THE CONSTITUTION give me any information concerning my husband, I. N. any information concerning my husband, I. N. Taylor. He is a carpenter and cabinet workman, and a left-handed man of fair complexion, with a scar on one cheek; was in Birmingham, Ala., when last heard of. Any information will be thankfully received. Address as above. Please advertise this and oblige. Mrs. S. A. TAYLOR.

A Beautiful Badge.-Station House Keeper John Joyner was the recipient of a beautiful badge yesterday, presented to him by an old comrade. It was made up of several silver bars on a blue ribbon, and reads, "Company K, Fourth Georgia Regiment." It is a beautiful souvenir, and is highly valued by Private Joyner on account of the associations.

A Sad Accident.-Little Albert, the son of Mr. David Kauffman, of L'eberman & Kauffman, was very tadly hurt by a fall from the trapeze bar at the Young Men's Christian Association Tuesday afternoon. He sustained a compound fracture of the left arm at the elbow, and has been in a critical condition ever since.

It was at one time feared that amputation would be necessary, but yesterday afternoon five prominent physicians were called in, and after a thorough examination of the wound, decided that such an operation would not be necessary.

The limb was reset, and the little sufferer was resting easily at a late hour

Two Historic Weapons.—Yesterday Major Hemphill's two aids, Lieutenants W. S. Landrum and John Clay Smith, wore each a historic weapon. Lieutenant Landrum wore a saber that was worn Ineutenant Landrum wore a saber that was worn by the brave Captain Mark D. Lee, one of the finest soldiers who ever drew a blade in the cause of southern right. The blade is rusted and there are more than a hundred dents in the edge, mementoes of many a flerce encounter. In the scabbard is a dent that was made by a minie ball during that last desperate charge at Appo-mattox. Captain Lee was a brother of Lieutenant Ramsey Lee, who lent the sword to Lieutenant Laundrum.

Lieutenant Smith wore a sword loaned him by Major Thomas Kirke, who were the blue during the war, but whose heart and soul are with the south and its progress today, as much as an citizen to the manor born. It is a battle-worn blade, and did reliable service in bygone days.

To Country Merchants.—Next Monday being "Drummers Day" at the Piedmont exposition, merchants of this and adjoining states are cordially invited to visit the city on that day and to accept the hospitalities of the Southern Trav-elers' Association. They will be most royally enter-tained at Pledmont park and at the elegant rooms of the association in the old capitol building. It is especially desired by the merchants and traveling men of Atlanta that every merchant in the surrounding country shall be present and join in the festivities of the occasion.

in the festivities of the occasion.

Captain James R. Wylie, president of the Piedmont Exposition Company, has promised the drummers one of the best programmes of the exposition, and it will be a real treat to all visitors.

President H. L. A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

An Old Mnn Walks Out of a Window of His Boarding House.

Mr. S. M. Hall went through a narrow escape Thursday night.

He came to the city from Hall county early in the week and stopped at the Cannon house, on Decatur street.

in the week and stopped at the Cannon house on Decatur street.

About 11 o'clock night before last, Mr. Hall, who is about sixty-five years old, stopped out of a window in the second story of the building, and walking out on the awning gave way, and the old gentleman caught the iron railing and hung suspended for several minutes until Patrolman Jim Wootten discovered him. Securing a stephadder the patrolman saved Mr. Hall from a very hard fall.

Mr. Hall was considerably bruised up, but his injuries were not of a serious character.

A CURIOUS FREAK.

A Mountain Cow Gives Birth to Four Calves.

A strange and curious freak of nature oc-curred on the plantation of Captain English, a few miles out on the Peachtree road, Thursday night.

Mr. Jeff Carr, a farmer, who lives near Captain English's place, is authority for the statement that an ordinary mountain cow gave birth to four well developed calves.

They were all dead, but a negro who lives on the plantation preserved their bodies, and had them on exhibition yesterday.

Frederick Warde and Mrs. Bowers. Next Monday and Tuesday, at night and at matinee, these two great, legitimate artists will appear in three of the best plays of the English repertory—"Macbeth," "Henry VIII" and "Virginius."

Frederick Warde has been before the American public as a stellar attraction in the classic drama for a period of over ten years. It is only lately, however, that he has made for himself important money. He has always adhered to his fixed policy of presenting only the works of the masters of presenting only the works of the masters in play-writing, despite strong momentary inducements to obtain the high place he strove to establish for that of modern melodrama; but, notwithstanding the great tempstation such financial gain would have been to him, he followed his own inclination, and backed by the good advice and wishes of his many crudito friends, maintained the firm hold he had upon intelligent theatergoers and increased it by renewed effects and study. This season he has associated with him that distinguished actress, Mrs. D. P. Bowers, who has been a pronounced favorite with all classes of theater-goers for over a score of years, and together they are touring the United States with an elaborate reproduction of Shakspeare's historical tragedy, Henry VIII, which has not been elaborately done in this country-recently, although its European production scored the most palpable hit of recent years. A vast amount of scenery, armor, preperties and costumes to secure accurate mounting of the play is carried, and the company has been carefully and conscientiously selected.

Robert Mantell. The distinguished actor, Robert Mantell, begins a two-night's engagement at DeGive's opera-house on Wednesday evening next, October 29th, producing two of his most successful plays, D'Ennery's "Monbars," and Dumas's "Corsican Brothers." The first named play has been seen Brothers." The first named play has been seen here before, and, as its hero, Mr. Mantell never appeared to better advantage. His characterization of this complex character has proven his worth as a romantic actor, and that his Louis and Fabien dei Franchi should have made such a great hit elsewhere is not to be wondered at. In everything Mr. Mantell has yet essayed he has conclusively shown that he is a careful and conscientions student; and his success is deserved, "Monbars" will be played on Wednesday evening and at the Thursday matines. The "Corsican Brothers" is underlined for Thursday night only.

In an issue last week of the New York Tribune, the following was quoted from the Boston Advertiser:

I am sometimes amazed in passing the great ready-made clothing establishments to note how differently they are regarded than formerly. It was less than a generation ago that they were patronized almost exclusively by workand farmers who desired rough, cheaply made clothing. Merchants, bankers, professional men invariably left their measure with their tailors, and scorned what was familiarly termed "slop-made" clothing. But a demand arose for fine grades of ready-made clothing and the alert American manufacturer was ready to meet it. It was the old story of the relative cost of making one coat or of making 500. But there were men of peculiar shape who heretofore could be fitted only by the custom tailor. He was too tall, too fat. This difficulty was soon met and overcome, until today the ready-made dealer has for his customers that class of men who once scorned him

Each season we are extending our facilities, multiplying our varieties, manufacturing with increased advantages and bringing within your reach the choice and pick of all there is in reliable and fashionable male attire. A long sight to see far ahead, a perfect organization to search the world over for the latest, and finest and a fat purse to secure generous discounts on great buying and quick paying have made everything possible.

Thus do we present our colossal stock--a genuine cosmopolitan collection--for this public, gotten under those favoring conditions.

Frederick Warde has been before the American public as a stellar attraction in the classic drama for a period of over ten years. It is only lately, for a period of over ten years. It is only lately, however, that he has made for hisself important money. He has always adhered to his fixed policy of presenting only the works of the masters in play-writing, despite strong momentary inducements to obtain the high place he strove to establish for that of modern nelodrama; but, notwithstanding the great temptation such financial gain would have been to him, he followed his own inclination, and backed by the good advice and wishes of his many crudite friends, maintained the firm hold he had upon intelligent theater-goers and increased it by renewed efferts and study. This season he has associated with him that distinguished actress. Mrs. D. P. Bowers, who has been a pronounced favorite with all classes of theater-goers for over a score of years, and together they are touring the United States with an elaborate reproduction of Shakspeare's historical tragedy, Henry VIII, which has not been elaborately done in this country-recently, although its European production scored the most palpable hit of recent years. A vast amount of scenery, armor, properties and costumes to seours accurate mounting of the play is carried, and the company has been carefully and conscientiously selected.

The distinguished actor, Robert Mantell, begins a two-night's engagement at DeGive's operatouse on Wednesday evening next, October 29th, producing two of his most successful plays, D'Ennery's "Monbars," and Dunnas's "Corsican Brothers." The first named play has been seen here before, and, as its hero, Mr. Mantell never appeared to better advantage. His characterization of this complex character has proven his worth as a romantic actor, and that his Louis and Fabien dei Franchi should have made such a great hit elsewhere is not to be wondered at. In everything Mr. Mantell has yet essayed he has conclusively shown that he is a careful and conscientions student, and his success is deserved, "Monbars" will be played on Wednesday evening and at the Thursday matinee. ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Mayor of Atlanta. For Mayor of Atlanta.

The friends of Hon. Anton Kontz announce him as a candidate for the mayoralty of Atlanta. They point with pride to his record as a citizen, as a business man, as an officer, as a public servant and as a friend. Atlanta needs a man of nerve, of probity, of high personal character, who relies upon his own judgment, and who cannot be swerved for mayor. Such a man is Anton Kontz, and as such the suffrages of the people are asked for him.

In an issue last week of the New York Tribune, the following was quoted from the Boston Advertiser:

I am sometimes amazed in passing the great ready-made clothing establishments to note how differently they are regarded than formerly. It was less than a generation ago that they were patronized almost exclusively by workingmen, mechanics and farmers who desired rough, cheaplymade clothing. Merchants, bankers, professional men invariably left their measure with their tailors, and scorned what was familiarly termed "slop-made" clothing. But a demand arose for fine grades of ready-made clothing and the alert American manufacturer was ready to meet it. It was the old story of the relative cost of making one coat or of making 500. But there were men of peculiar shape who heretofore could be fitted only by the custom tailor. He was too tall, too fat. This difficulty was soon met and overcome, until today the ready-made dealer has for his customers that class of men who once scorned him

Railroad Personals and Topics of General Interest Concerning Railroad Matters in Every Section.

A meeting of the principal officers of the different express companies took place in New York on Monday, and it was decided to inrorese the tariff on freight, the increase to increase the tariff on freight, the increase to go into effect on November 1st. Rates are to be advanced from all seaboard points, and a meeting of the superintendents of the tariff departments of all the express companies will take place in Chicago, Thursday, October 30th, to make arrangements for the coming advance, which will be made on the basis of the rate between New York and Chicago. This rate is now quoted at $2 per 100 pounds, and by the coming arrangement, it is understood, it will be increased to $2.50. This will, according to report, be the maximum increase between all points west of Buffalo and Pittsburg.

It is claimed that this will be the best equipped road in the southwest.

The stockholders of the Alabama Great Southern, a part of the Queen and Croscent system, met in Birmingham, Wednesday, and the election of the new board of directors settles the fact that the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia system has secured control of the Queen and Croscent. A resolution was passed to increase the board of directors from seven to eleven, and the following were elected: H. D. Brown, A. B. Abraham, Roger Eykyn, Charles Schiff, T. W. Snagg, Samuel Thomas, Calvin S. Brice, John H. Inman, John G. Moore, Charles McGehee and Francis Pavey. A majority of the new directors were named by the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia people.

The matter of wages for passenger train-nen on the Michigan Central has not yet been men on the Michigan Central has not yet been decided. The request for pay on the part of the passenger men is not confined to the Michigan Central. A similar demand has been made by the Lake Shore and by those of nearly made by the Lake Snore and by those of nearly all other trunk lines, and it is possible the managers of the systems affected may have a conference before the final settlement of the matter. Although the request for more pay is made simultaneously on all lines, it has none of the features of a strike. The men argue well for the advance, but make no threats and fix no special day on which their request and fix no special day on which their request

"There is a possibility," says the Louisville Courier-Journal, "that President Ingalls will have some trouble in taking control of the have some trouble in taking control of the Cincinnati, Sandusky and Cleveland road on-November 1st. As usual in such cases, certain stockholders claim to be dissatisfied with the deal made by the majority of the stockholders, and threaten to enjoin the Big Four from taking possession. The move is not likely to cause delay in the matter, as an investigation will show that it is the best deal that could have been made for the Cincinnati, Sandusky and Cleveland stockholders, say those in a position to understand the situation."

In an interview with a Chattanooga Press reporter a railroad man explains the cause of so many railroad accidents. He says:

"This subject is a very serious one, and is commanding public attention. There is certainly a reason for these accidents, and these causes ought to be thoroughly investigated by railroad officials. I have discovered after making considerable inquiries that the engineers and conductors are often times lax in obeying orders. Specific and peremptory orders are iven as to passing stations, often the men in oreceive these orders set them at naught, id as a consequence we find an account of an accident. If orders were implicitly carried out we should not hear of the heart-rending stories of horrible railroad wrecks; as a matter of fact, they would become a thing of the past. If a tany time wrong orders are given them, the officials who gave the wrong orders should be instantly discharged, no quarter should be allowed him. The same with the men, for an infraction of a same with the men, for an infraction of railroad order or rule that man should get his dismissal card. Men who run on railroads have possibly the most responsible duties to perform, hence they should execute them with e they should execute them with remarkable invention has been made in austria whereby the serious results from railway collisions are prevented. Glass tubes project before the train, and if they are broken by an obstacle an electric movement is applied to the brakes, bringing the train immediately to a standstill.

The numerical strength of the different railroad organizations is estimated as follows: Brotherhead of Locomotive engineers, 20,000; Brotherhoad of Locomotive Firemen, 18,000; Brotherhoad of Railroad Trainmen, 10,000; Switchmen's Mutual Ald Association, 6,000; Brotherhoad of Railroad Conductors, 2,000.

A block system apparatus was recently exhibited which automatically rings a bell or blows a whistle in the cab of an engine entering a block that is occupied by another train. The noise continues until the train ahead leaves the block.

The popular belief that great speed is attended with great danger is not confirmed by the experience on English railways. In 1887, 700,000,000 passengers were carried and only one fatal accident occurred.

The Russian government is building a railroad n almost a straight line from Moscow to Behring ea, which is expected to be completed within five ears.

The freight depot of the Mobile and Birming-ham Railroad Company, at Mobile, was destroyed by fire Thursday morning.

All trains coming into the city were crowded again yesterday, bringing visitors to the Pledmont exposition.

All railroads running into Atlanta will give a sne-cent-a-mile raie next week, and it is expected to greatly increase travel.

THE STOCK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

Georgia .....

NEW YORK, October 24.—Continued liquida-NEW YORK, October 24.—Continued liquidation in Sugar Refineries was again the most disquieting factor in the stock market today, but added to this was higher rates for money, losses in earning on St. Paul and a dispatch asserting that Burlington, Rock Island and St. Paul would give the Union Pacific no more through business and would charge the last named full local rates on all business originating at points on its line. Weakness in silver was also a considerable factor, but the excitement in Sugar Refineries was an overshadowing element in the movement of prices. The general expectation was that the stock would reach still lower figures today and at the opening The general expectation was that the stock would reach still lower figures today and at the opening there was an unusually large crowd waiting to execute orders, and a scene of unusual excitement followed the tap of the gavel. The official opening price was that of last evening, but sales were made at several different prices at different points in the crowd, and as the bulk of orders were to sell, the price was soon carried down from 6634 to sell, the price was soon carried down from 66% to 64%. A reaction followed the execution of early orders and 6612 was reached when professional bears took a hand and forced prices off again, and pears took a hand and forced prices off again, and the downward movement was not checked until 61% had been touched. This is a loss of 11½ per cent since Wednesday evening and 13% since Monday. There was what looked like an organized effort to advance stock at the lowest price, however, and traders made a rush to cover their shorts with the effect of carrying stock late in the however, and traders made a firsh to cote their shorts with the effect of carrying stock late in the afternoon beyond the opening figure of the day nearly 1½ per cent. The general list was held comparatively steady during theforenoon, but the dispatch from Chicago in regard to the Union Pacific and Grangers was a signal for combined attack upon the stocks of those roads, and material losses were sustained by all of them. The vigorous rally in sugar, however, brought the regular list along with it, especially as money rates were easier late in the day and in most of other cases were about recovered, Union Pacific alone proving sluggish. Final trading was large and a strong tone prevailed in all portions of the list, the close being active and strong a about the level of opening figures. Final changes of today show a majority of losses, but they are generally confined to fractional amounts. But the Union Pacific is down 1½ per cent. Sugar is fractionally higher, as is also Chicago Gas, which sympathized most closely with the early drop in sugar. Sales 243.000 listed and 210,000 unlisted.

London prices were somewhat lower this morn ing, and another shorp break in sliver further de-moralized the general market. The short interest has undoubtedly been increased. Mr. Commack's that at the lowest of the day. In sugar there seems to be a big fight. It is reported that political influence is being brought to bear to have a receiver antagonistic to the Havemeyer party appointed for the trust and that in case of such an appointment it would undoubtedly be remoder. receiver antagonistic to the Havemeyer party appointed for the trust and that in case of such an appointment it would undoubtedly be wound up. At about 62 a heavy covering movement set in which carried the prices back to 66, but, as we have already advised our friends, trading in sugar is too high-priced for the limited means of the street. In fact the street has learned that the losses in it far outbalance the possible profits. The general list was weak on new trouble among the Grangers due to a change of base by the Union Pacific officials who have demanded an increase of percentage or a division of rates, and the reason other lines, with the exception of the Northwestern, seem to have banded against the Union Pacific is self-protection, and we think this position taken by the other roads will help matters as, if all roads will combine against the rate disturbance, they can soon punish them. Another instance of this is the general combination of the Southeastern against the Rock Island, and it is only a question of time when this road will be brought to its senses, and then a general and lasting peace will be established. Money was again quite stringent, loaning up to 8 per cent, but it was exsier in the final trades, and although the bank statement to morrow will probably show a decrease in reserve of from one to two millions we do not anticipate any great stringency of funds. By Private Wire to Youngblood & Haas.

NEW YORK, October 24 — The market today has been weak in consequence of heavy selling out of long cotton by disappointed bulls who had bought during the past few days in anticipation of frost, We believe there is still considerable liquidation to take place from this source, providing the weather continue favorable. It is our opinion that it is wear setting less for any serious. opinion that it is now getting late for any serious damage, even should frost occur, and we believe that it is now only a question of how much more will be added to the crop by continued savorable weather. Under the circumstances we see little risk in selling cotton.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, October 24—[Special]—It has been a day of liquidation in the cotton market. Liverpool is 2½ points lower than last evening and the close here has shown a loss of 10 points on last evenings prices. The bears have had the advantage and have not failed to press it, the extreme prices at 2 o'clock being some three to four points below the closing. Clearing weather throughout the south has been the main reason for the decline and beyond this there is no news of importance to and beyond this there is no news of importance to report. The interior movement is about 127,000 against 123,000 bales last year, and port receipts continue on a liberal scale. The sentiment in favor of lower prices has become more pronounced, but we notice that some of the more conspicuous bears we notice that some of the more conspicuous bears hitherto were large buyers at about today's lowest prices. The weather is likely to continue the controlling influence for the next ten days and reports of further storms throughout the south would no doubt lead to a substantial reaction.

The comparative cotton statement is omitted on account of incorrect figures by telegraph.

kept coming out at each decline. Stop lots limit orders were reached, and wheat sold on these materially aided depressions. New York did some buying here, evidently on the strength of export buyings. Northwest bought little, probably on the indications of rainy weather up there, but the demand served only as a temporary shock, and in spite of export news prices declined.

The opening was about 1/2% lower than yesterday's closing, and prices declined, with only slight fluctuations, 1/2%, becember being weakest; then rallied 1/2%, but again became weak, and sold off 1/2%, or to inside prices. Fluctuated considerably and closed about 1/2% lower than yesterday.

and sold off \( \alpha_c\), or to inside prices. Finetuated considerably and closed about \( \frac{3}{2}\) \( \text{cl} \) lower than yesterday.

Corn was a little more active and unsettled, though most of the session a weak feeling was manifested and business was at lower prices. The casier tone was due in a measure to the weakness in wheat and to free selling by longs and receipts of cribbers. First trades were at slight advance, after which a decline was recorded, when the market rallied, selling up \( \frac{1}{2}\), c, eased off again, changed some and closed with slight loss.

Outs, fairly active, but unsettled, with lower range of prices. Weakness and decline in wheat and corn caused the market to open easy, and prices to yield \( \frac{1}{2}\). There was good general buying on recession and a reaction of \( \frac{1}{2}\) c resulted. Later the market yielded \( \frac{1}{2}\), \( \frac{1}{2}\), c but became firmer, and closed steady at a gain of \( \frac{1}{2}\), \( \frac{1}{2}\), c over yesterday's last sales.

mer, and closed steady at a gain of %2% over yesterday's last sales.

Mess pork was moderately active. Opening sales were 2½@Sc lower, and a few sales were made at a slight rally. Later prices receded 10@12½c, as reduction prices rallied 15@17½c, but near the close settled back to medium figures and closed rather steady.

closed rather steady.

Lard was little more active. Early in the day prices ruled 2½ 65c lower. Later prices rallied 5@7½c, and the market closed at medium figures. Short ribs were fairly actively traded in. Prices fluctuated considerably within small range, and the market closed at about outside figures.

Private Wire Telegram to Youngblood & Haas. CHICAGO, October 22.—2:50 p. m.—The wheat

CHICAGO, October 22.—2:50 p. m.—The wheat market was especially weak today, prices declining over a cent from last night's close, slightly above the low point of the day. The feeling is that a reaction should take place. The general tendency of the market acts so heavy that it will not be improbable to expect lower prices. Speculation is just lively enough at present to follow any big leader, and as wheat has many friends to matter what is the price any receiving. friends, no matter what is the price, any reaction, after the break we have had, would not be unexpected. There is not much news. The movement in the northwest continues fairly liberal, and some export movement was reported at New York, but the volume was not very large. The tendency, we take it, is still dragging, as outlined yesterday. Corn was easier today. Altogether, prices did not decline as much as wheat.

out were weak at the opening, but the strength displayed of late reasserted itself, and prices reacted. May sold above 46c several times, and finally closed slightly above that figure. There have been numerous orders to sell today, and the fact that the market has held up so well is a matter of surprise to some. The orteque of the grain is of surprise to some. The outcome of the grain is creating considerable interest. Taking the situation as a whole since last spring, the bulls have had the best of it, and any weak spots will probably be taken advantage of by the bear contingency.

Provisions experienced a break today, the late will force having died out somewhat. Do not see buil fever having died out somewhat. Do not see anything especially new in the market. With the present price of corn, provisions are reasonably cheap, and is the factor looked at when figuring on an advance. Lamson Bros. & Co.
